Senior-citizens project swamped with applicants

THE GOOD EARTH at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is tended by parents at the school — once a year at least. A special day for parents to plant trees, shrubs and flowers while working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerrin, who helped in planting.

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 29, of 8652 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

More than 1,000 senior citizens have been placed on the waiting list for the 300-unit Elk Grove Village Senior Citizens apartment development.

"It's unbelievable. We knew we would create some interest but we are simply amazed at the number of applicants," said Betty Sanger of M. Myers and Associates Inc., project developers.

The federally subsidized Village Grove Apartments should be ready for tenants by mid-June.

The developer will show models next weekend, May 24 and 25.

MISS SANGER, director of marketing for the firm, said "No publicity has been planned for the model showing and only about half those seniors who have listed with us for apartments are being notified they are ready for viewing."

She added that senior citizens are clamoring to be placed on waiting lists even when they are told that more than 1,000 have applied before them and there are only 300 units.

"This should certainly show Elk Grove Village officials and others in the area that there is definitely a need for senior citizen subsidized housing," she said.

The Village Grove Apartments are located on a 14-acre site south of the Grove Shopping Center and front on Arlington Heights and Wellington Avenue. Graded sidewalks connect the two-story buildings placed around a winding seven-acre lake and landscaped area.

The developers obtained a $4.5 million low-interest mortgage from the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development for the total complex. Eighty units received an additional subsidy through a second federal program.

UNDER THE rent-subsidy program, the 80 efficiency units will rent to low-income seniors, 60 years of age and older, at rents ranging from $60 to $160 a month depending on their yearly income.

Low income is defined as less than $4,900 for one person and less than $5,600 for two persons in the same family.

The rest of the units will rent from $158 to $172 a month although firm officials said rates may have to be raised depending on the mortgage interest rates.

Family learns Bible work -- in the jungle

Swifts to leave Rolling Meadows to translate God's word . . . where ?

by NANCY COWGER

For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.

But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.

Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.

"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and hand nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.

While Swift was trying to survive, the women and children, in-

Won't change legislators' minds

Doctors' walkout an empty threat?

by KAREN BLECHIA

Northwest suburban state legislators Friday said a threat by Cook County doctors to call a one-day work stoppage will do nothing to influence the lawmakers' votes on bills to curb malpractice lawsuits.

"We are proceeding as rapidly as possible," said State Rep. Richard A. Mugnili, D-Palatine. "The threat is unnecessary if the doctors are aiming at legislation. Psychologically, this kind of thing tends to turn some people off."

The voluntary one-day work stoppage was proposed by the Chicago Medical Society Thursday to dramatize the medical malpractice insurance crisis. Officials of the society said they would call for a voluntary stoppage of work on nonemergency care such as office and outpatient services, elective surgery and X-ray procedures if the Illinois General Assembly fails to pass legislation acceptable to the society.

Doctors want passage of bills that would limit malpractice awards to $500,000 and establish a medical-review panel that includes a doctor, lawyer and judge to review malpractice cases before the trial stage. The bills are expected to be voted on next week.

PHYSICIANS contend that a rising number of malpractice suits without basis and large awards by sympathetic juries are pushing malpractice insurance rates so high doctors may be forced out of business.

Dr. Howard C. Burkhead, president of the Chicago Medical Society, and that if no legislation is passed the medical society would urge doctors throughout the nation, whether they are society members or not, to join the stoppage. He said the society probably would work through heads of hospital medical staffs to organize it, which would take at least 10 days.

Spokesmen at four Northwest suburban hospitals said they have received no notification from the society of a possible work stoppage and hospital officials said they did not know if doctors on their staffs would participate.

Officials at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights; Holy Family, Des Plaines; Lutheran General, Park Ridge, and Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, said patients in the hospitals and emergency cases would continue to be cared for if there is a work stoppage.

"Nobody at Holy Family will go without needed care, especially emergency cases," said Dr. Graham Vance, president of that hospital's medical staff.

STATE REP. Eugenia Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, said some legislators may complain about being "coerced" by the threat but that it would not change their votes. She said the 400 doctors who earlier this week lobbied in Springfield for passage of the bills will have a greater impact than a threat to stop work.

"Legislators react to voters," she said.

"I'm very disturbed doctors would even consider calling a work stoppage," said State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie. "I think they found a climate here that was conducive to what they want. You don't achieve anything by denying people medical attention. I am inclined to support the bills."

State Rep. John Porter, R-Evanston, said he will support the medical-review panel but believes the $500,000 damage limit is unconstitutional.

"I would urge the doctors not to consider such a work stoppage for any reason," he said. "I can't see how unprofessional conduct by professionals could do anything but hurt."

STATE REP. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, said he would support the bills, including the $500,000 award limit. On the threat to stop work, he said "I suppose doctors have just as much right to do that as anyone."

State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, sponsor of the malpractice bill in the Senate, said most of the legislators he has talked to support his bill. He said he thought the work stoppage threat would "draw attention" to the problem, although he opposed an actual work stoppage.

However, not all doctors agreed with the medical society's tactics. Dr. Lee Maimed, radiologist at Northwest Community Hospital who has gone to Springfield to lobby for the bills, said the threat may hurt the lobbying effort. He called the threat to stop work "a little premature."

Dr. Sheldon Cohen, president of the medical staff at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, said he would resign from the Chicago Medical Society if the doctors pushed for a work stoppage. He pointed out that he was speaking as one physician and not for the hospital or medical staff.

Schools drop book over sex-bias charge

Sexual bias in textbooks has become an issue with Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 board members who refused to purchase a home economics text because it contains sex-role stereotyping. Three home economics books have been presented to the board. Two were approved but the book "Teen Horizons" was discarded after a 3-to-3 vote of the board. Teachers must select another text to replace the offending book.

Carbena rehearing denied

The Illinois Appellate Court turned down Thursday a request for a rehearing by convicted murderer Ruth Carbena. Mrs. Carbena, 1762 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, is free on $25,000 bail after sentencing in June 1973 for the murder of her husband, Joseph, a Sheriff's police lieutenant. She has 35 days to appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court.

1,000 seek seniors' housing

More than 1,000 senior citizens have applied for apartments in Elk Grove Village's 300-unit senior citizens' housing development. The federally subsidized housing will open in mid-June and model apartments will open May 24.

Busse principal improving

Busse School Principal Robert B. Ferguson was in serious condition but improving late Friday after a traffic accident in Mount Prospect. Ferguson, 1208 Robert Dr., Mount Prospect, was injured in a three-car collision Thursday and is in Northwest Community Hospital's intensive-care unit.

Switch to vote machines?

Mount Prospect may use county-owned voting machines in the next village election, Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said Friday. Eppley examined recent use of voting machines in Wheeling after a discovery recount in Mount Prospect's April 15 election showed that judges lost hundreds of votes tallying election results.

Crisis proves U.S. has limits: Kissinger

SEC. OF STATE Henry Kissinger said the seizure of the Mayaguez demonstrates "there are limits beyond which the United States cannot be pushed."

by United Press International
Angrily declaring "we were forced into this," Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger said Friday the Mayaguez seizure proves "there are limits beyond which the United States cannot be pushed."

At the same time, White House spokesmen disclosed President Ford felt all along he would have to use military force to free the pirated freighter from its Cambodian captors and avoid a hostage situation similar to North Korea's capture of the spy ship Pueblo in 1968.

Kissinger agreed: "There was no chance during this crisis to resolve it diplomatically," he said. "We never received a response which would allow us to explore it diplomatically."

At the Pentagon, military officials released a "still unconfirmed" casualty report from Thursday's battle of Koh Tang Island. It listed one Marine killed, 13 servicemen missing from a helicopter shot down at sea and 22 wounded.

Cambodia, which captured the commercial freighter 60 miles off its coast Monday, returned the 39 Mayaguez crewmen in the midst of a rescue raid on the Gulf of Thailand island by the Marines, the Navy and the Air Force. Mayaguez steamed toward Singapore Friday from the Gulf of Thailand.

The White House spokesmen and Kissinger rejected reports the United States relished the chance to make an image-boosting show of force such as the Mayaguez raid.

"We are not looking for opportunities to prove our manhood," he added, but the action shows the United States will protect its interests.

Kissinger bristled when a reporter asked if he were glad the United States had a chance to save face in the wake of the defeats it has suffered in Southeast Asia.

"Nobody can be glad to be put in a position where lives of Americans are at stake," he said angrily.

"We were forced into this. We had to act on the basis of saving American lives . . . and the interest of the United States."

Pentagon spokesmen disclosed Thursday that U.S. warplanes bombed the Cambodian mainland twice during the Koh Tang raid, hitting a fuel dump some 43 minutes after the Cambodians had delivered the Mayaguez crewmen to a U.S. destroyer in addition to an earlier raid on an airfield.

On the issue of Mayaguez crisis diplomacy, Kissinger said he was positive the Cambodians had received various U.S. messages because some of them had been delivered directly from the U.S. mission in Peking to the Cambodian embassy there.

At the White House, Press Sec. Ron Nessen said Ford and his advisers suspected from the outset military force would be necessary.

"It was felt that too much delay could have led to the kind of solution as in the Pueblo case, that the people would be taken out of reach if we waited too long," he said.

Kissinger also said the United States would work to restore harmonious relations with Thailand, which has recalled its ambassador from Washington to protest the dispatch of 1,100 Marines to a Thai staging area during the Mayaguez crisis.

"We do not anticipate a severance of relations with Thailand," he said.

"We are prepared to discuss in a spirit of friendship and cooperation any concern Thailand has."

The sister ship of the Mayaguez is heading to Thailand on the same sea route used by the Mayaguez, the owner said.

The White House said Americans have indicated overwhelming approval of Ford's handling of the Mayaguez incident, with more than 12,755 positive letters, telegrams and telephone calls.

A spokesman said about 1,000 were negative.

Prime rate drops at two banks

Bank of America of San Francisco, the nation's largest, and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York Friday lowered their interest rates for prime business loans to 7½ per cent from 7¾ per cent. EPA hits Corps' tactics on wetlands

The Environmental Protection Agency accused the Army Corps of Engineers Friday of falsely claiming it would have to regulate farm plowing and other activities under a proposed rule to safeguard America's wetlands. The controversy stems from four alternative regulations proposed by the Corps May 6 to protect swamps from the dredging and filling that has turned many of the nation's wetlands into housing developments or industrial complexes.

Watergate prosecutor may be withdrawn

Watergate Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr. said Friday his office had received more Nixon tapes and papers — this time with the former president's blessing — for use in criminal investigations. 25 ask to return to Vietnam

$405 million refugee funds OK'd

by United Press International

Legislation providing $405 million to finance the resettlement of more than 100,000 Indochinese refugees was approved by the Senate and rushed to the White House Friday.

President Ford was expected to sign the measure early Monday, when it is expected to reach the White House.

The bill also provides funds to send refugees back to South Vietnam should they desire to return. About 25 Vietnamese refugees sent a petition to State Dept. officials Friday saying they want to return to South Vietnam.

Despite a difference between the Senate's and House's dollar authorization limit on the resettlement program, the administration can begin to spend the money as soon as the President signs the measure.

The Senate also passed legislation setting a $405 million authorization ceiling on the program and sent it to the House. The House can either accept the Senate measure or uphold its own authorization measure — which

Cambodia, Viet trade embargo set

The Commerce Dept. Friday declared a "general trade embargo" against Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The action is a technicality since the Treasury Dept. froze all financial and commercial transactions between has a ceiling of $507 million — and call for a conference with Senate members to resolve their differences.

It also was learned that direct commercial circuits between Hong Kong and Saigon have been reestablished.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told newsmen a conference could begin next week.

Other differences include a Senate amendment by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., that requires the United States to pay the transportation costs of any refugees wishing to return to South Vietnam.

The Senate also accepted an amendment by Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky., that requires Ford to report to the Senate Foreign Relations, Judiciary and Appropriations Committees and the speaker within 30 days after passage of the legislation on the status of Cambodian and South Vietnamese refugees and the President's plans for their resettlement.

McGovern touched off a storm of controversy earlier this month when he said in a speech that 90 per cent of the Vietnamese refugees would be better off voluntarily returning to Saigon.

But none of the controversy was apparent Friday. The Senate approved McGovern's amendment, which was strongly backed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, by a voice vote.

Also Friday, a House subcommittee informally agreed on a bill to free draft resisters willing to sign a certificate swearing their action was due to the Indochina war.

The bill would carry no requirement for alternative service. Upon signing the certificate the resister would be given a general, rather than honorable, discharge.

Meantime, McGovern and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., urged support for their legislation which would grant unconditional amnesty to war resisters.

They said in Senate speeches that many South Vietnamese being resettled in the United States bribed their way out of military service, while many young Americans who refused to serve remain unwelcome in their own country.

'Gulf foreign bribes total $5 million'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gulf Oil Corp. made $5 million in secret political contributions to government officials in South Korea, Bolivia, Lebanon and Italy starting in 1966, board chairman Robert R. Dorsey acknowledged Friday.

Dorsey's disclosures on Capitol Hill were followed by new government allegations that another company maintained a secret fund for payoffs to foreign officials.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said Ashland Oil Co. paid $4 million to unnamed foreign countries over the past eight years. The SEC did not indicate in a suit filed in U.S. district court here the reasons for the expenditures.

Dorsey said South Korean officials put extreme pressure on Gulf for contributions. Gulf donated $1 million in 1966, Dorsey said, but the Koreans demanded $10 million in 1970. After tough bargaining, the payment finally was lowered to $5 million.

It is illegal for corporations to make political contributions in South Korea, but Gulf attorneys accompanying Dorsey said they were not aware of the law at the time the payments were made.

Dorsey said the Pittsburgh-based company also made three contributions worth more than $400,000 to a former president of Bolivia, which also involved special leasing and eventual purchase of a helicopter.

Dorsey was the leadoff witness as a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee opened extensive hearings into corporate slush funds allegedly set up to buy friendly treatment from the governments of foreign countries in which they operate.

Subcommittee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said at the outset of the inquiry — expected to continue for months — that the United States recognize the issue for what it is: "a serious foreign policy problem."

Dorsey said he believes other multinational corporations have made such payments to foreign government officials. "I would like to think we're a lot worse than the others," he said. "But I have no reason to believe that."

Replying to another question, Dorsey said Gulf never asked U.S. officials for help in resisting pressure from the foreign governments. "As far as the U.S. government is concerned we're like a motherless child," he said.

Senate OKs package to provide 900,000 jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed and sent to the White House Friday a $5.3 billion package to fund job-producing projects across the country, but the bill faced a good possibility of presidential veto.

Backers of the bill say the $5.3 billion will create 900,000 new jobs through stepped-up spending for public service employment and conservation construction projects previously authorized but never funded.

President Ford is known to be opposed to the bill, and some White House advisers have urged him to veto it. Ford not only objects to the large amount of money in the legislation but also believes the spending is inefficient and misdirected.

In addition to funds for state and local government public service jobs, the measure contains appropriations and authority to guarantee loans for a wide variety of public works projects and programs of the Bureau of Reclamation, Corps of Engineers and the Agriculture Dept.

Also Friday, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., moved to block any attempt by states to tax 1975 federal income-tax rebates.

He introduced a resolution reaffirming congressional intent in the new tax-cut law — under which taxpayers are getting up to $200 back — that the rebates should not be subject to state taxation.

The House Ethics Committee recommended that congressmen should pay their own way on trips if they are mainly for political purposes or personal convenience.

But the committee advised taking free rides is all right if members of Congress can construe the trip to benefit the prospective audience more than them, if they are picking up an honorarium or if the plane, car or boat is going to their destination anyway.

State Medicaid-fraud reports 'lax'

Congressional auditors charged Friday that federal officials know Illinois was not complying with Medicaid anti-fraud regulations, but did nothing about it. The General Accounting Office said 20 states never have referred a suspected Medicaid fraud case to law-enforcement agencies, and recommended creation of a federal agency to investigate fraud and other abuses of Medicaid and Medicare programs.

The Illinois program is under investigation by seven state agencies, four private organizations and one federal agency. Three possible cases were referred to the U.S. Attorney in January. From 1966 until this year, not one case was referred to state or federal prosecutors, the GAO officials said.

Bicentennial coins on way

Forty-five million commemorative coins will be minted to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial, Mary T. Brooks, director of the U.S. Mint, said Friday.

The coins will be available in sets that include a silver dollar, a 50-cent piece and a quarter.

About 6 million sets will contain coins with a high silver content. The sets will be designated as "uncirculated" and will be encased in plastic.

The silver dollars will include an image of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the 50-cent pieces will include an image of former President John F. Kennedy and the quarter will retain a profile of George Washington.

Mental patient talked down

A 22-year-old Decatur mental patient was talked to safety Friday after hanging barehanded from an 80-foot radio tower for more than 38 hours.

James B. Suttle ended a two-day threat to jump from the tower at 6:30 a.m. Friday after talking to medical authorities and his mother, who stood on the roof of a nearby building. Suttle entered the Adolph Meyer Zone Center Wednesday, shortly before he scaled a 12-foot wall that guarded the tower base.

OK $90,000 to study '911'

The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission has approved a $90,000 grant for the Illinois Commerce Commission to study statewide use of the "911" emergency phone system. The year-long study will determine the cost of establishing the amplified number statewide. The number is in use in some cities, but ILEC spokesmen said there are problems of jurisdiction if a 911 call in one town is answered by police or fire departments in other towns.

REP. ABNER MIKVA

REP. PHILIP M. CRANE

ROMAN PUCINSKI

New remap hurts strength of Mikva

by BOB LAHEY

Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.

The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.

In the odd-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.

The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

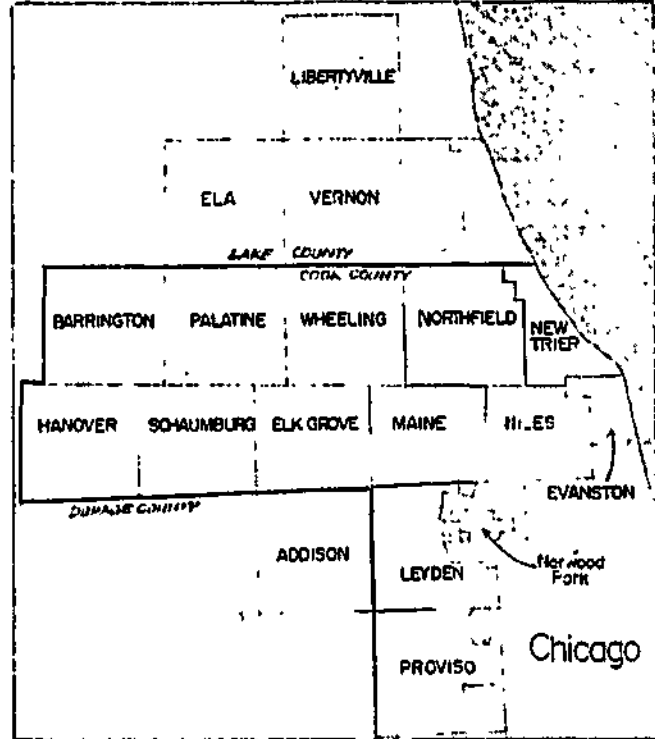

In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

- Control of delegates to the 1976 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution.
- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstaters that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention. The original map introduced by Partee — which is still the only proposal formally before the Senate — would, for instance, throw three North Shore state central committeemen into one district.

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

The three, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago; and 10th District Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka, all led delegations in 1972. All three delegations were committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen.

Employees from 7 firms donate 50 pints of blood

Employees from seven Elk Grove Village Industries gave 50 pints of blood Friday through the Industrial park's Group Sureblood Program. Workers who donated blood benefited the village's Community Blood-Assurance Program and their home communities.

The Group Sureblood Program and the village's Community Blood-Assurance program are sponsored by the North Suburban Blood Centers.

Donors who live in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates or Mount Prospect who also participate in the North Suburban program can make their blood donation count twice.

When someone donates for the group through the industrial program the donation also counts for his community.

A donor living in a town without a program may request his donation be counted for Elk Grove Village.

"This gives workers who live in communities without a program, like Chicago, a chance to belong to a blood-assurance program that guarantees their whole family free, unlimited volunteer blood when they need it," said Village Trustee Nanci Vanderweel, program chairman.

The seven firms that participated in Friday's blood drawing were Ryder Truck Rental, Rainsoft Water Conditioner, Fred W. Kramer and Associates, A. M. F. Volt-Inc., Claiborne Boutique, Vendo Corp., and Redson-Rice.

House plants do strange things

Those of us addicted to house plants — and we're an army by now — find them a never-ending source of joy and fascination. But don't ever lose patience or rely on the books with blind faith. Plants do strange things.

Take my own experience with a Christmas cactus. It's supposed to bloom only in the short-light days. So I followed the book and put it in a dark closet for four weeks last October. Out it came at the proper time, to get fertilized and watered regularly. Nothing happened, despite the short-light days or devoted attention.

Finally it went into his ribs' study to sit on a cabinet. In April he called my attention to buds starting to form at the tips of the branches. Two weeks later the long-light days upon us, each bud was transformed into a gorgeous display of red-orange color. Our post-Easter cactus!

Dear Dorothy: I know it takes an oven at either 400 or 450 degrees to bake potatoes properly. But wouldn't it be nice to put them in when you are baking something at 350 degrees?

—Mary Beth Snider

No reason why you can't do it. Just set your oven at 350 and start the potatoes earlier. It merely takes longer. A medium-size potato should take an hour and 10 minutes at 350 degrees, so you plan accordingly and slide in the main dish at the proper time.

Dear Dorothy: I've burned and scratched a Teflon-coated pan so much I'd like to use the pan minus the Teflon qualities. How do I get off the remaining bits?

—Judith Werner

Haven't tired it myself, but understand you can get it off through hard rubbing with coarse sandpaper. But why not do what I've done with such a pan? I just add a lump of fat and nothing sticks because the shortening and remaining Teflon combine to do the job perfectly.

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Ms. Ritz: No personal offense is meant, but your column has to go because it perpetuates sexism. Everything you write has to do with women in the home. Women have to proclaim independence from this stupid mythology that makes them the household slaves of men. Your column is a symbol of this demeaning existence, and if you do not stop it on your own we must do it for you.

—Margot S. Jessup

All I can say is that you either don't read properly or you are so taken up with your crusade you've lost your sense of proportion. If you would only check, you'd discover many of my correspondents are men and that my counsel is directed at people regardless of sex.

We all have to live in homes, fend with school, clothes, taxes and all the normal problems of life. My family is as good a case history as any — where the men often do the cooking, washing, ironing and other so-called "domestic duties" better than the rest of us. Seems to me you carry your kind of argument to the point where it becomes a form of intellectual slavery.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Padlock Publications, Box 289, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Spring food baskets

Arlington Heights Jaycee Wives will again donate spring food baskets to families in the Arlington Heights area. Chairman Cindy O'Neil has worked with the Visiting Nurses Association of Arlington Heights, Arlington Heights School District 25 and the Northwest Opportunity Center to select families who require aid because of temporary setbacks such as illness or layoffs.

Funds for this project were raised from the Jaycee Wives annual cheese ball sale.

KIDS' KORNER

by MARILYN HALLMAN

GOOFY GOLF

For this goofy game, each player needs a pencil (golf club) and wad of foil (golf ball).

Number paper cups from 1 to 9. Mix them up. Tape them at intervals around the edge of the kitchen table, with cup rims just below the table edge.

The first player starts (tees off) from the center of the table. With his pencil, he hits his foil ball until it falls into the first cup (hole). The number of hits is his score for that hole. Each player, in turn, plays the first hole.

Players then take turns teeing off from the table just in front of the first cup and playing the second hole. Continue until all holes have been played. If a ball falls off the table, return it to the center of the table. Add one penalty stroke to your score and continue playing until you finish the hole.

Winner is the player with the lowest score at the end of the game.

Herald opinion

We'll miss Herbert Behrel

Announcement last week by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel that he will retire from office next year means the Northwest suburbs will lose a strong and often intelligent voice, and the city of Des Plaines will lose a friend.

In his unprecedented length of office, which spans nearly 20 years, Behrel has become as much a part of the image of his city as any public edifice. He represents Des Plaines in his manner, his jocularly and his obstinance when he thinks he is being pushed too far.

On several occasions this newspaper has disagreed with Behrel, and we have said so on these pages. He has had running disagreements with neighboring mayors and with his own aldermen. But we have never found any reason to criticize the Mayor's obedience to his elected office or his passionate interest in his city and its residents.

This is not a eulogy, for we wish Mayor Behrel a long and pleasant retirement with his family. But since he has disclosed he will soon draw his public life in Des Plaines to a close, we think it fitting that the newspaper which sometimes questioned his actions speak about his successes.

Only the most adamant of his detractors can look at Mayor Behrel's nearly two score of years in office and not find in total a record of honest effort on the public's behalf. His has been a stable and honest influence in the Northwest suburban community, and it has been leavened by Behrel's own good sense of humor about himself and his high position.

In Behrel's own words, he has described himself and his office:

• "As I go along, I alienate some people. Maybe I made them mad enough to act." December, 1972.

• "1973 is a time and place in life where we must look toward change . . . I want to stay on awhile longer and see some of this finished . . ."

• "I work hard at my job and I like it . . ." January, 1973.

We don't intend here to give a summation of Mayor Behrel's political career. Instead, this is a simple declaration that Des Plaines just won't be the same without him.

Next mayor: part time

Herbert Behrel's decision to retire early will no doubt set off political scrambling to determine his successor.

Before things get too hot, we urge the city council to adopt a city manager form of government with a part-time mayor. It will be an opportune time to enact this needed reform.

Behrel has been burdened in running the city by a jerry-built management structure that gives aldermanic committees too much control over purely administrative matters.

The political void resulting from Behrel's departure will increase the power of committee chairmen in day-to-day decisions, further complicating the city's business.

The answer, as we have suggested before, is a professional city manager with responsibility for the city's administration. This will give city council members more time to do the things they should be doing — considering important policy matters and representing their constituents.

Making the mayor's office a part-time job will attract qualified candidates who are unable to interrupt their careers to accept a political post they could lose at the next election.

We recognize the opposition to the city manager system among many aldermen. They should ask themselves if they really believe a candidate as qualified as Behrel is likely to be elected to replace him as full-time chief executive.

The city manager - part-time mayor setup can be adopted by ordinance. We urge the city council to do so well before the 1977 mayoral election.

Reader questions park plans

The issue raised by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees over their proposed development of Willow Stream Park is a decidedly public one. It does not concern the development of private land. It concerns how land held in trust for all of the citizens of the community by the park district will be developed for the benefit of the whole community.

The Jaycees proposal is to convert an existing resource from its currently natural state into a developed area designed to support a high level of organized recreational activity. The area is covered with native vegetation which provides forage and cover for numerous small wild animals including rabbits, chipmunks, skunks, and other native species. In the fall of the year, pheasants are to be found in significant numbers frequently approaching the nearby properties abutting the site. At the heart of the site is a small wetland area with frogs and lizards. The site serves as an annual stopping place for migrating geese and ducks which gather there both in the spring and in the fall.

Altogether the area is not very large, but it is teeming with life in delicate balance that can easily be destroyed.

This site is not a national resource of any great consequence. However, within the village of Buffalo Grove, it represents a rare resource which once destroyed can never be recovered!

Currently it is heavily frequented by small groups of boys adventuring in what seems to them a huge wilderness where they hunt for lions or dragons hidden out of sight and beyond many of the sounds of civilized activity. As such it provides youngsters in the area a welcome contrast to cleared and developed portions of the park site in the vicinity of the pool. It is a retreat for them from the realities of adult life and any reminders of it. I remember as a boy what a shock it was to be confronted by a fire hydrant isolated deep in a wooded area I thought to be my own secret meadow.

The Jaycees proposal is, they claim, intended to provide children with recreational facilities. The park site does just that right now for children whose free imagination can convert the area to anything they want it to be.

The Jaycees propose to clear several areas within the site and place playground equipment on it. The park currently has playground equipment near its entrance and the park district finds it hard put to keep it maintained.

The Jaycees propose to provide picnic facilities scattered about the site for adults to enjoy, but the location they propose to place the equipment is virtually inaccessible from the sole public entrance to the site and there is no way of providing any public access from any other place short of purchasing and demolishing someone's home to build a new road in.

The Jaycees are offering their money and their labor to develop the site but the park district will be responsible for its continued maintenance, for maintaining any access roads which may have to be built; for providing garbage and trash pickup and for planting, feeding, weeding and cutting any sodded areas; for providing police protection to users and neighbors. Currently the village is providing police protection, the main complaint being an occasional motorcyclist on his trail bike taking a "short cut" to the golf course and avoiding public roads.

The Jaycees have concluded that their proposal is good for the village. They did not develop their plans publicly with the residents of the village. They prepared their plans privately and presented them for us to accept.

The Jaycees have not evaluated their proposal in relation to the existing site and its value to the residents and children who use it; they regard it as merely an empty piece of land waiting for them to confer on us the gift they insist we need.

The Jaycees have not evaluated whether the site can sustain the level of use and activity their proposal is intended to generate. If access is required across private property it will have to be paid for with public funds and maintained with public funds.

Residents currently abutting the area willingly provide access to it for children from as far as three or four blocks away. The residents keep a careful watch for any dangers to the play of these children such as trail bike users. The residents have cleared, planted grass and keep mowed a small area which is used several times a year for large neighborhood picnics and which they clean up and police after every such occasion. After the land is developed whatever its shape or transformation those same residents will be required to live with it while its developers, the Jaycees, will go away satisfied in the notion that they have done their good deed.

'A week too good to be true'

Something's wrong — everything went right this week. I don't mean that I won in the state lottery or that a bunch of Boy Scouts washed all my windows and put up the screens; it was just that all the little things that could go wrong didn't.

There was the morning, for instance, that I overslept — and I found my wig, my shoes and my glasses right where I expected they'd be. Even when I got up on time, I'm late to work because I can't find one shoe and I count it such a victory to get both of them on my feet that someday I'll forget the rest of my clothes. And most mornings when I get up too late to put up my hair and I look like the bride of Frankenstein, my wig has disappeared. And my glasses are never where I left them the night before.

But not this week.
Also not this week was being held up by commuter trains. I live at one end of town and work at the other, and statistics which show what percentage of our lives we spend working, eating and sleeping don't count for people like me. People like me spend half our lives waiting behind crossing gates. We also spend a goodly percentage of our driving lives swearing at commuters on bicycles who ignore all the traffic laws. This week, however, I got the green light three mornings out of five and there wasn't a cyclist in sight.

I even got into all the right lines Monday through Friday.

At the bank the only person in front of me had a single, simple transaction instead of turning in his lifetime accumulation of coins in exchange for three bonds, a new savings account and his choice of one of six free gifts for opening a new account. And the express lane in the supermarket really was. And nobody's cash register ran out of tape just as I got there.

Things went well at work too.

The boss asked for something and I found it in the first place I looked, I remembered how to spell Albuquerque — Albuquerque — Albuquerque without looking it up, and I got to the office before he did.

Sunday I cleaned house just for the heck of it and unexpected guests popped in. Normally I have to haul a stranger in off the street to have somebody appreciate my neatness, and tidy friends bring in their hyper-tidy mothers-in-law only when my house is a shambles.

My crowning achievement was with the weather. My clean car didn't get rained on for 48 hours but my newly planted garden did, and I out-guessed the office air conditioning when I decided what to wear each day.

It was nice while it lasted — but now I have to go grocery shopping.

Blackbird menace next for us

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — Seizure of a U.S. merchant ship by Cambodia is being widely viewed as the first post-Vietnam challenge to American military commitments.

There's some feeling here that the next test could come next fall when the blackbirds return to Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Make no mistake about it — the U.S. Army's intervention against the blackbirds menacing its bases in Southeast America last winter was by no means conclusive.

The birds that survived the spraying with a chemical that causes them to freeze simply retreated north with the spring migration.

According to intelligence reports, they are regrouping for another southward foray next fall. The issue, therefore, is clear.

Does the nation have the will and determination to make the sacrifices necessary to continue the blackbird eradication program?

Or have we become too demoralized by the Vietnam disaster to carry out these obligations? Many members of Congress, including some who originally were hawkish on the blackbird issue, have become badly disillusioned.

"We underwrote the purchase of enough Tergitol to freeze up to 10 million birds, yet the body count came up with only about 20,000 casualties," one lawgiver told me bitterly.

"I don't see how we can justify pouring any more money into the defense of Ft. Campbell — not with an election coming up next year."

Military authorities insist, however, that Ft. Campbell can be saved if given the means to defend itself.

One analyst, Commodore Claus von Frigate, warns that withdrawing support from Ft. Campbell would have far-reaching consequences.

"Allow blackbirds to overrun Ft. Campbell and you'll soon see Ft. Bragg overthrown by starlings, Ft. Jackson overcome by robins and Ft. Benning overwhelmed by barn swallows," von Frigate told me in an interview.

"The Army will be standing around like a pitiful helpless giant while they take all of Southeast America under their wing."

I pointed out that many bird-watchers disagree with that theory. They are by no means convinced that cutting off supplies to Ft. Campbell would inevitably result in a birdland takeover.

But von Frigate insisted a pull-out would have ramifications far beyond southern military bases. It would undermine the resolve of Ft. Dix, N.J., to make a stand against bobolinks and of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., to hold out against tomtilts, he warned.

In the circumstances, our best bet may be treetop detente.

Forest View romps to district track title

by ART MUGALIAN

When you've got four fast Falcons, you don't clip their wings — you let them fly.

And that's what Forest View running coach Dave Brown does. He has one of the fastest quartets of quarter-milers in the state, and — judging from the results of the district track meet at Prospect Friday night — he knows what to do with his Falcons. Brown hands them a baton and pots them in the mile relay.

Mike Mitsos, Bill Mitsos, Vince Ippolito, and Steve Schellenberger capped Forest View's easy victory Friday with a sensational 3:22.0 clocking in the mile relay, beating runnerup Hoffman Estates by nearly eight seconds. Both teams qualified for the state meet next week.

The Falcons also won the 440- and 880-relays.

But it was the performance of the mile relay quartet that kept the crowd buzzing long after the meet was over. Schellenberger's anchor lap was 1:48.8 and Mike Mitsos contributed a leadoff leg of :49.3. Those times helped give Forest View the third best relay effort in the state so far this season.

"They really ran well," said Brown, whose boys' previous best was 3:24.8. "I figured they could run a 3:23 or so, and I think they can bring it down a little. Ippolito ran a :52 and he can come down some. And Schellenberger is capable of cutting a second off his time."

The Falcons broke the district mark of 3:23.7 set by Maine South in 1971.

Another Falcon who shattered a district record was junior triple jumper Mike Harvey a winner with a 42-5 jump. Prospect's Jack Devero also qualified (41-3 1/4).

Schellenberger had earlier qualified in the 880 with a 1:55.4 running virtually unchallenged. Also qualifying in the half-mile were Dave Price of Barrington (1:57.4) and Ed Elliott of Hoffman (1:57.8).

Fremd finished second with 37 points, well behind the 56 points chalked up by Forest View, the team which ran off with the Mid-Suburban League title last week.

Coach Pat Brogan's Fremd outfit qualified eight trackmen for the state meet, including four district winners. Will Fieldhouse captured the two-mile with his best time of the year (9:22.3), just ahead of sophomore teammate John Filosa (9:28.8).

Miller Paul Kinyon ran a 4:10.5 for a win, as four other millers qualified, including Fremd's Dave Scott. Also qualifying for Fremd were shot put winner Rich Sharps (55-7 1/2) and long jump winner Lawson England (21-3 1/4), with his top jump ever.

Other millers to qualify were Jim Shaffer of Palatine (4:22.7), Sam Cox of Hoffman, and Augus Ziccarelli of Wheeling.

Forest View's junior hurdler Jim Vartanlan easily captured first place in the 120-yard high with :14.6, as Rolling Meadows' Jeff Ramas also qualified. Prospect's Jim Wright nipped Falcon sealer Dave Matsi in the low hurdles, :39.3 to :39.5. Both will go downstate.

Hoffman qualified in the 440-relay and Dundee made it in the 880-relay.

Rolling Meadows pole vaulter Mark Harris broke the district record by reaching 14-7 1/2, his best career vault. The old mark was 13-10 1/2. Harris' teammate Mike Quinnett also qualified at 13-6, along with Fremd's Tim Lincoln and Randy Gray and Hoffman's Dave Paapo.

Sprinter Rick Sutton of Rolling Meadows raced to a :10.1 victory in the 100 and repeated the win in the 220 with a clocking of :22.9. Arlington's Phil Dindelli (:10.4) and Dundee's Wes Dillon (:22.9) also made it.

In the 440, St. Victor's Mike Gillespie was the winner in :50.8, followed by Mike Mitsos, who qualified in a time of :51.1. The winner in the high jump was Palatine junior Ken Reid, who reached 6-3 for the first time this year. He edged out Barrington's Dan Schenck and Prospect soph Brad Millar, both qualifiers at 6-3. Millar also goes downstate in the long jump with a 21-1 1/2.

Barrington's Ron Zilkowski qualified in both the discus, which he won (152-9), and the shot (second in 53-4). Buffalo Grove's Larry Smolinsky made it in the discus (149-2).

Cards out front in MSL net meet

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Tennis Editor

With just two rounds left to be completed, the Arlington Cardinals are poised to capture the tennis championship of the Mid-Suburban League when the final day of competition gets rolling at the Arlington courts this morning at 9 a.m.

A solid favorite when the meet began, Arlington did nothing to diminish the faith in them as the hosts pulled steadily away from everyone but Prospect, the runner-up team through the regular season.

Paul Wei, unbeaten at first singles in 12 MSL matches for Arlington this year, advanced to the final four with a bye in the first round and a 6-1, 6-1 pounding of Hoffman Estates' Kent Karr in the second.

Wei is joined in the semi-finals by Prospect's Tom Frederick, Dave O'Donnell of Forest View and Keith Rayner of Hersey.

Rayner advanced with a bye and 6-3, 6-1 decision of Elk Grove's Bill Siebold. O'Donnell also got through the first round via a bye and reached the semis by downing Conant's Orson Faynor 6-0, 7-6.

Frederick, who will square off with Wei for the finalist spot from the lower portion of the bracket and a loser to the Arlington ace in an earlier dual meet, topped Buffalo Grove's Jack Szewacki 6-1, 6-3 in the first round and Rolling Meadows' Chuck Fischer 6-3, 6-2 in the second.

The second singles semi-final match between Arlington's John Yenzel and Prospect's Dan Hanson could be one of the closest of the entire tournament.

In the dual meet between the Cardinals and the Knights, Yenzel topped Hanson in three sets but the Prospect junior knocked off two excellent singles players to win Arlington district title last weekend.

Both Hanson and Yenzel went through the first round with byes and then knocked off their second round opponents in straight sets.

Hanson canned Fremd's Steve Adashek 6-2, 6-0 while Buffalo Grove's Tim Kane fell to Yenzel 6-1, 6-2.

John Wallner, the Arlington player Hanson bumped off for the district singles title, will be battling Schaumburg's Steve Collins in the semi-finals of the third singles bracket.

Wallner was unbeaten in a dozen conference matches and, seeded first in the tournament, went through the first round on a bye. He moved to the final four with a 6-2, 6-0 win over Buffalo Grove's Bill Christensen.

Collins had to knock off Hersey's Paul Juranek 6-1, 6-1 and Fremd's Bob Milligan 6-4, 6-4 to reach the final four.

Prospect's Tom Wegner and Palatine's Mike Esenberg advanced through the first round on byes while Tom Kodashek of Forest View topped Elk Grove's Ken Algozin 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 and Wheeling's Mike Prindle whipped Hoffman's Dan Kaley 6-2, 7-5 to move into the second round of third singles play.

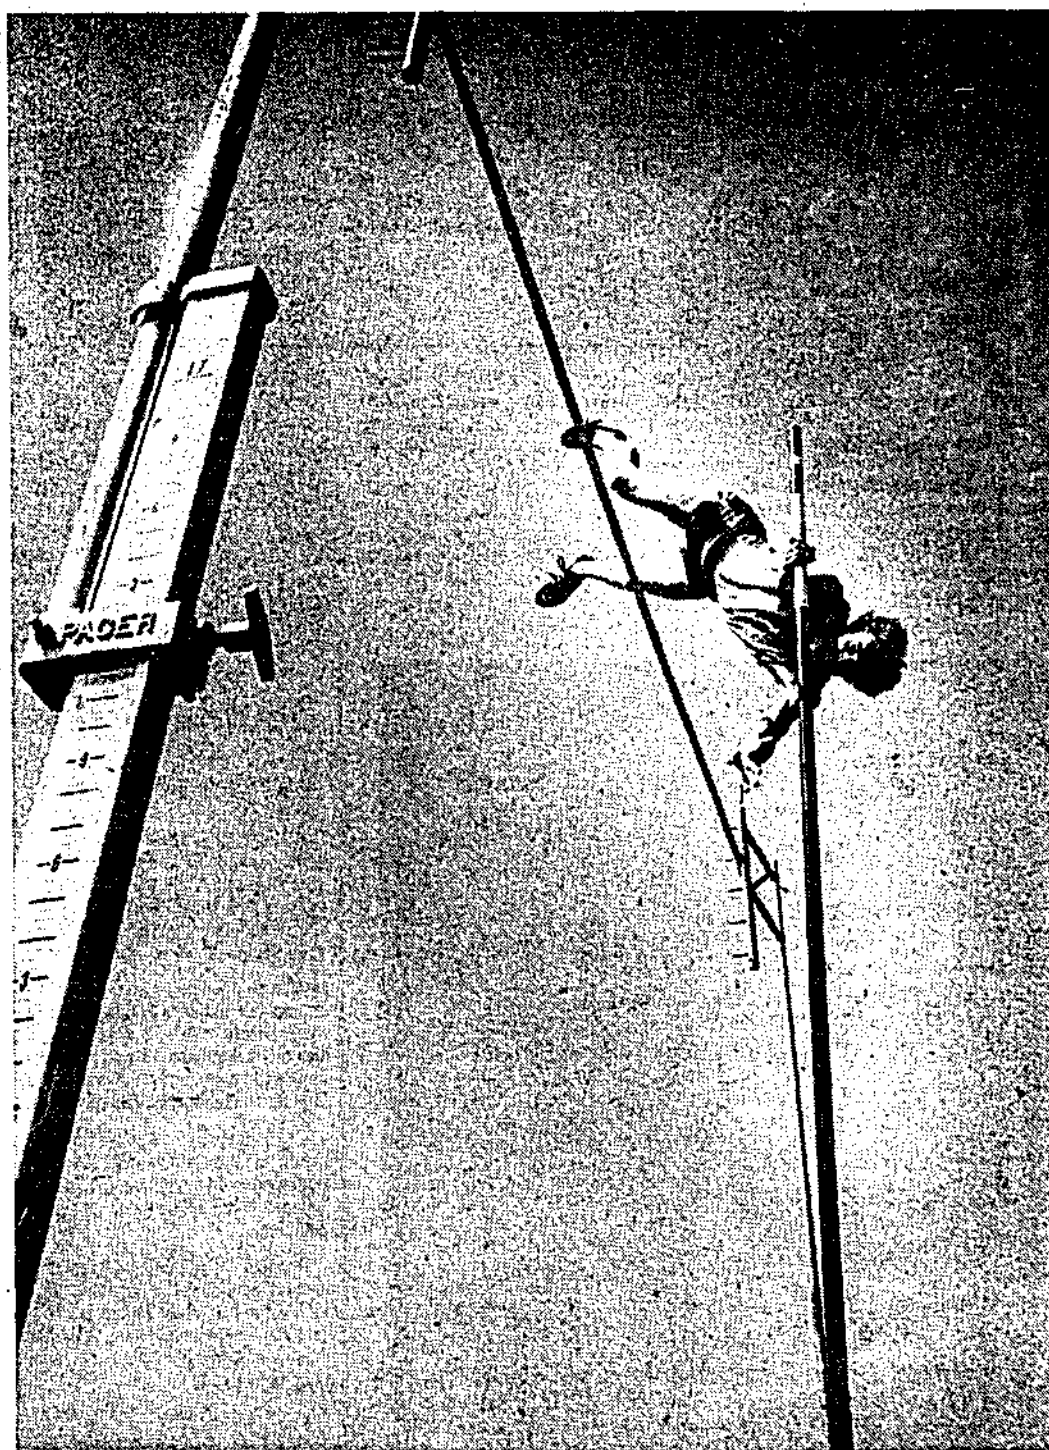

Prospect, Forest View, Palatine and Arlington, the top four finishers in the regular season, put first doubles teams into the semi-finals.

Prospect's Gary Hughson and Dave Thomas used a bye and a decision over Wheeling's John Brennan and Sean Folkes (4-0, 6-0) to reach the final four.

Steve Calderone and Nick Kekos, a pair of sophomores from Forest View and the winners of 10 MSL matches, earned their spot with a first round bye and a three set win over Hersey's Steve Felice and Scott Powell.

Palatine's Mike Tows and Kevin Kunzweiler beat the Fremd entry of Mike Mitsos and John Matsura 6-3, 6-3 in the first round and stopped Elk Grove's Bob Curran and Rob Soderholm 6-1, 6-4 in the quarterfinals.

Luke Weeg and Pete Burkhardt of Arlington, the top seeded team in the first doubles, went through the first round with a bye and then put aside Rolling Meadows' Greg Hannat and Ron Schowengerdt 8-2, 6-1.

REACHING FOR every inch is Bruce Mahlig, the Schaumburg pole vaulter who will begin his push for a state title today at the Glenbard East district meet. Mahlig, shown here narrowly missing an attempt at 16-1 at last week's MSL championships, has hit 15 feet or better five times this year. His best is 15-7. Only Ken Harding of DeKalb among the state's other vaulters can claim a 15-foot outdoor vault.

4 girls advance to track finals

by PAUL LOGAN

Girls' Sport Specialist

Four Herald area girls will be trying for medals Saturday at the third annual Illinois High School Association track and field finals in Charleston.

When Friday's state meet preliminaries began, 44 individuals and 12 relay teams carried the hopes of the area for state glory. But the stiff competition helped push most of these young women to the sidelines.

Of the four individuals who remain, two are the favorites in their events after their Friday showings.

Conant High School's Mary Ann Johnson made a major move toward successfully defending her 1974 shot put title with a toss of nearly four feet farther than her opponents. She recorded a heave of 43 feet, 9 inches, breaking her own mark set in last year's finals of 42-11 1/2. Her closest competitor's best on Friday was a feeble 39-10.

Maine East's Melody Miller appears a good bet for one and possibly two championships in today's finals, getting underway at noon with field events and 12:30 p.m. with running events.

Miller holds the fastest preliminary time in the two-mile run with an 11:31.5. This was considered a new record although the event is new, making six new marks for the day. Besides Johnson's record as well as Miller's, also broken were the 440-yard relay, 100-yard low hurdles, discus and 880-yard relay.

Miller just missed being the leader going into the finals for the mile run. She was clocked at 5:23.4, just 1/10th of a second off the top time. She was second in the mile finals last year and captured the 880 title.

Prospect's Trudi Rebsamen was looking for her third straight double win, but it will take a super effort today.

Rebsamen went 2:53 in the 220-yard dash with 25.1 being the top time. However, her chances don't look as good in the 440-yard dash. She recorded a 58.7 compared to a 56.9 tops.

Wheeling's Gail Miloch has a good chance of winning medals in both her events. She had a 2:23.9 in the 880-yard run (tops is 2:17.2) and a 5:30.9 in the mile.

Oak Park-River Forest qualified seven athletes for the finals to lead all teams. Three teams had five each — Cahokia, Illinois and Chicago Calumet.

FOREST VIEW FALCON Karen Terp floats "flop-par" style over the bar at 5 feet, 1 inch earlier this week to win the Mid-Suburban Conference title. However, she missed out qualifying for the state finals Saturday, clearing the bar at the Charleston hosted meet at 5-0 Friday afternoon.

Regional baseball play begins for area entries

by KEITH REINHARD

Two down, four to go.

This is the stance five area baseball teams assume today as the IHSA state playoffs continue with opening round regional action.

Prospect, Arlington, Rolling Meadows, Palatine and Wheeling have all donned district crowns and will put them on the line at four tournament sites this morning and afternoon in hopes of parlaying them into a trip to Peoria.

The regionals Saturday and Monday (weather permitting) are the second step along the road to the state finals in Peoria June 5-6. Winners of each of two games at regional tournaments today will pair off Monday for the right to advance to the sectionals, where 32 teams will be cut down to eight for the final showdown.

When the playoffs begin, a team usually has to win two games each at the district, regional and sectional level to qualify for one of those downstate berths. Three more wins after that and a team stands alone atop the Illinois prep baseball pack.

All except the regional involving Palatine will feed into a sectional at Niles West where the winner will meet the Chicago Public League champ in game three of the state finals.

The Pirates are one of 16 teams vying for the top slot in the Dundee Sectional, which will hook up with the Providence Sectional winner in game one of the finals.

PROSPECT REGIONAL

Coach Larry Pohlman's Knights go from one diamond giant to another as they come home for regional combat. After opening district play with a triumph over Maine North, they met, and turned back the defending state baseball champion Glenbrook North nine on the Spartan home field. Now they must go up against Niles West, winner of the state crown two years ago and a perennial powerhouse.

Other entries at Prospect are Evanston and New Trier West. They collide in the opening game at 11 a.m. this morning, with the Knight-Indian bout slated to get underway as soon as the first game is over, probably at 1:30 p.m.

RIDGEWOOD REGIONAL

The Cardinals, under the direction of Fran Somers, and the Mustangs, coached by Al Otto, will be meeting for the second time in three days when they skirmish in the nightcap of Ridgewood's double header at approximately 12:30 p.m. The first game features the host Rebels and Holy Cross at 10 a.m.

Arlington earned their regional berth by winning the Hersey District and entered Thursday's league game with Meadows owning a 12-2 overall record and a comfortable lead atop the North Division standings. The Mustangs, participating in a six-team struggle for South Division honors, knocked off the Redbirds handily but this will form no basis for the outcome today.

LAKE PARK REGIONAL

Al Berman will be leading the Pirates into their first regional tournament since 1969 when they face off against Glenbard West at 10 a.m. in the first game of the Lower playoffs. A second contest will pit West Chi-

Here's where to find battling bluegills

Pound for pound, the bluegill has to rank as one of the fiercest aquatic scorpions in Illinois waters.

Anyone who owns an ultra-light spinning outfit and has ever dropped on a school of bluegills with a No. 12 hook and a can of worms will tell you that a bluegill, tied tail-to-tail with most gamefish his size, will probably drag him around the lake.

Perhaps the only handicap of this member of the sunfish family is that it never greatly grows into that tackle-breaking junker, although the state record is a hefty two-pound, 10-ounce.

Redworms appear to be the "illet mignon" for bluegills, but at this time of the year, crickets will fill a stringer equally as fast.

Bluegills inhabit most warm-water streams, lakes and impoundments, both flowing and standing. Their small size demands greater numbers around the dinner table, but these panfish are as good to eat as they are to catch.

An important staple in the diets of bigger game fish, the bluegill is distinguished by a small mouth and a short gill flap which is tinted black. The lower portion of the gill cover is bluish.

A distinct black spot is at the posterior end of the dorsal fin and the throat of the male may be colored orange.

According to research compiled by Illinois Department of Conservation fishery biologists, land and resort owners and veteran fishermen, the following lakes and rivers have been deemed as the hotspots for Illinois bluegill fishing in 1975:

Paddlers set for marathon

All systems are "GO" for the 18th annual Des Plaines Canoe Marathon that will see a flotilla of some 1,000 craft launched beginning at 8 a.m. Sunday morning at Oak Spring Road in Libertyville.

The 19-mile excursion has drawn the nation's largest field of competitors who will race against the clock for patches and trophies that will be presented at the finish line at Dam No. 2 in Wheeling.

The colorful event attracts hundreds of spectators who line the course route to watch experts and novices alike attempt to navigate the river.

Despite Wednesday night's thunderstorms, the Des Plaines River is low and may cause a problem for delicate canoes. Officials may suggest that paddlers portage both dams.

Fly fishing techniques aimed at novice anglers

The novice angler who picks up a fly rod in search of trout often is faced with hours of frustration before he puts his first fish in the creel.

Too many beginners charge off to a trout stream with fly rod in hand and a box of artificial flies without the basics of handling the equipment. And, too often those who do take time to learn how to use a fly rod properly don't spend an equal amount of time studying the fish they are after.

The novice doesn't have to know how to cast a fly 60 feet to catch trout. In small streams he may never have to make a cast longer than 20 feet. If the stream is small enough, he may never get beyond the length of his leader.

More important than being able to cast long distances, the novice must learn the habits of trout and how to present a fly properly. The key to fishing for trout with a fly is to take it slow and easy.

Trout flies can be broken into two categories — wet and dry flies. Dry flies are fished below the surface.

The novice is best starting with dry flies in his search for trout, as he can see if the fly is floating properly. He also can see when a trout sucks it in.

Trout have uncanny vision and often feed on insects and aquatic life barely visible to the human eye. They also can be spooked easily by too much noise or by seeing the angler.

It is understandable, then, that the fly angler must approach a stream quietly and make accurate and quiet presentations on the water with the fly. Also, due to the trout's sharp vision, the fly must ride properly on the surface to imitate a natural insect or the fish will avoid it.

When trout are actively feeding on a fly hatch they will face upstream. When they see an appealing insect floating toward them, they will rise up and suck it in, then return to exactly the same place again where they wait for more to float by.

Fly fishermen watch for such rises and try to match an artificial fly to the natural flies floating on the water. Armed with a fly they feel most closely resembles what the trout are feeding on, the fly fishermen casts above and beyond the feeding trout in an attempt to float the artificial past the fish. If they are successful, and the artificial closely resembles the natural insect, the trout will take the bait.

If the artificial fly travels too slow or fast on the water, or is not well balanced, the trout usually will detect something is wrong and pass it by. When fish continually refuse the fly, the angler usually is doing something wrong or has not matched his fly close enough to resemble the hatch.

Keeping in mind the direction trout feed, the novice should begin fishing slowly upstream, making his casts upstream or up and across the stream.

If the trout are not actively feeding, the angler should float the fly past areas where trout are likely to be hiding.

When the novice enters the stream and the rising fish suddenly stop feeding, he knows he has made too much of a disturbance or has been spotted. Then he simply should stand still for several minutes until the trout forget he is around and start rising again.

Catching even small trout on a fly can be the most rewarding experience an angler will encounter. Taking a lunker trout on a fly can be a heart-stopper.

Beginners be warned: Fly fishing hooks the angler as quickly as a fly hooks trout.

Gridders dominate day in May

by PAUL LOGAN

Although it was the middle of May, discussions about football dominated the sports conversations Thursday at Inverness Country Club.

But that was only natural because the celebrities at the Sellstrom Invitational Golf Tournament were pro football players.

(The third annual outing entertains distributors for Sellstrom Manufacturing Co., Palatine — veteran makers of safety glasses and other eye, ear, face and head protective equipment. Proceeds for the event were donated to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.)

Two of the big boys on the course were Doug Buffone, the Bears' premier linebacker, and Gale Gillingham of the Packers. They also carded some of the highest scores.

"I had over a hundred," admitted Buffone. Only Dick Butkus could have asked him how much over the century mark it was and have gotten away with it.

Gillingham — who was the "other guard" in the famous last second play in 1967 when Bart Starr followed guard Jerry Kramer into the end zone to edge Dallas in freezing Green Bay for the championship — didn't mince words about his score.

The 6-foot-3, 265-pound lineman fired a 138. "The only way to play golf is to go back through the delivery room because this body will never play golf," said Gillingham.

When asked if the rivalry between Green Bay and Chicago was still as great as ever, Gillingham didn't agree. "I don't think the Bears mean any more than the Lions or the Vikings (or anybody else in the Central Division). I've got 26 games to get up for."

(You don't argue with offensive guards either unless you're Butkus.)

Bobby Douglass was there for a while. Then he had to run. Even off the field he'd rather do that than pass.

And there was Bob Parsons, the Bears' young tight end who has almost forgotten what it's like to catch a pass after only pulling in two last season. Someone said it might have been a good idea to have introduced Bob to Bobby.

Parsons was the most outspoken of the Bear players regarding the changeover in coaching. He admitted that Abe Gibron is a "good assistant coach. He might have been too lenient with the players . . . more of a buddy."

Parsons, a former star at Penn State, said that Jack Pardee is a head coach that takes "no ifs, ands or buts about it."

He predicted that the atmosphere will be "really different" this season. "Everything's so positive" about the man and his staff.

Buffone, who is more of an organization man, didn't want to comment on Abe. He did say that the Bears were in need of a lot of changes. He was hoping that his team would go the way of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who were also the doormats of the league just a few years ago and are now the champs.

Buffone said he "would like to play in a new stadium." Arlington Heights as a site would be great with him, "but it's still beyond me."

DOING A VICTORY dance after sinking a putt is Doug Buffone, premier linebacker for the Chicago Bears, during the Sellstrom Invitational Golf Tournament Thursday at Inverness Country Club.

Prospect girls swim to sixth win

Prospect ended the dual meet portion of its girls swimming season as it had done the previous five outings — victoriously.

The Knights rolled to their sixth straight triumph, stopping Wheeling 104-68. The winners will have a bye Tuesday with conference diving and swimming championships to come later in the week.

Arlington, holder of a 4-1 record, easily handled Forest View 120-39. Elk Grove, 3-2, won 91-81 over Buffalo Grove, now 2-3.

Tuesday's meets will have Buffalo Grove at Forest View, Arlington at Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove at Wheeling.

Schaumburg, Maines in district track

Schaumburg's Bruce Mahlig will begin his assault on the state Class AA pole vault championship at noon today at the Glenbrook East district track meet in Lombard.

Schaumburg's Saxons are the only Mid-Suburban League track team who drew a district assignment at Glenbrook East, where they will run up against top squads from Addison Trail, Elgin, Glenbard West and others.

Maine West and the Warriors' pro-mier miler, Joe Paul, will join Central Suburban League foe Maine East at the Glenbrook South district meet, also today. The CSL champion Warriors were district winners at Prospect last year.

Mahlig owns the top pole vault mark of the 1975 season with his 15-foot, 7-inch effort last Saturday which shattered his own MSL conference record by 17 inches. The Saxon senior has reached 15 feet or better on five occasions since the outdoor season began, including a 15-6½ record vault at the Palatine Relays.

Mahlig now holds the second and third best outdoor vaults in Illinois history. Only Tim Johnson of Bloom has gone higher, with a 16-5 effort last year.

Joining Mahlig will be Saxon teammates Dave Wodek and Ken Jaffe, in the weight events, and half-miler Mark Hoerich, all of whom will be trying to qualify for the state meet.

Binford's role vital at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS — Thomas W. Binford, a distinguished and civil-minded gentleman of 51 years whose receding gray hair sharply accents his dark glasses, had just begun describing his role as president of the Indiana Pacers basketball team.

But Larry "Boom Boom" Cannon, wheeling the red No. 59 Slimast Eagle, chose that moment to lose control past the Motor Speedway's south-west first turn, spin once down the track's middle and come to rest, safely, on some grass.

There had been the unmistakable screeching of tires. And the moment "Yellow light, yellow light," was blared over the public address system, Binford was gone in his Buick Official Pace Car, roaring away from the pits, a two-way radio in his hand.

Tom Binford is Chief Steward of the Indianapolis 500. Part of his job is accident prevention. He would rather there weren't any mishaps, but that's asking too much of auto racing.

"You're not sanguine," Binford said later in the calm of his sparsely white office near Gasoline Alley. "You visualize the times you've gone out there and it's been bad."

"But with a radio, I knew before we got away from the pits that he hadn't hit the wall. You just breathe a sigh of relief and go."

As late as 1973, there were no two-way radios in the pits at Indianapolis. Their introduction came 12 months ago, Binford's first year as Chief Steward.

Three men died two years ago on the Speedway asphalt. Driver Art Pollard's fatal injuries occurred during morning practice on pole day.

STP driver Swede Savage and mechanic Armando Tera died from injuries sustained during the fiery and ill-fated start which critically burned David "Salt" Walther. Tera was run down by a fire truck.

Gordon Johncock won that abbreviated Indy 323½, but it was a race people wanted to forget.

An expected public outcry followed: "Do something about the Indianapolis 500!" Racing admitted its business needed reevaluation.

Much heat was leveled at Harlan Fongler who'd been Chief Steward here since 1957. If nothing else, said the media, Fongler must go. And he did.

Speculation that Fongler's days were numbered gained credence when the Jan. 19, 1974, Indianapolis Star bannered, "Binford New '500' Chief Steward."

But the Indianapolis native Binford, who'd served 11 years as president of the United States Auto Club, hadn't been offered . . . much less accepted. . . the position.

Indeed, Fongler hadn't submitted or even discussed his possible resignation with Tony Hulman's Speedway people.

Nearly two months passed before the Star was proven correct. Binford became new Chief Steward on March 17, about nine weeks before race day and despite no previous experience as a USAC working race official.

Nobody would have thought of him had Binford declined the Chief Stewardship. There was plenty to keep him busy as president of the Automobile Competition Committee of the United States and delegate to the European based International Sporting Committee (CSI).

Not to overlook Binford's marketing and financial consultants firm here. Nor his involvement with various mental health associations, the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, federal civil rights commissions and numerous hospital groups.

His presidency and minor ownership of the Indiana Pacers qualifies Binford for trusteeship in the American Basketball Association.

All this, from a man who says, "I don't really like to work late at night."

"You look at the biography and you might wonder if I've got any sense at all," Binford admitted. "But they aren't continuous jobs. There's not really much to do here at the Speedway before March."

Binford remains a longtime defender of Fongler, but allowed the man might have been "his own worst enemy. Anybody's decisions can be questioned but he was too defensive with his decisions."

"When people criticized him, he'd lecture them and argue," Binford said of Fongler. "He just built up critics who when something really did happen were all too ready to blame him."

And they did, in 1973. Binford inherited an Indianapolis 500 which demanded new levels of safety, mandatory to convince the sporting public that auto racers hadn't become crazed men bent upon creating widows.

He succeeded. There were no fatalities, indeed, no major crashes in last spring's 500 month. Excepting some minor spills, Binford has a clean slate again this May.

Many reasons prevail. Major renovations were instituted last year at the Motor Speedway. Fuel allotment dropped markedly. The drivers cooperated. And not the least of all, Binford acted firmly.

He ruled 1974 eventual winner Johnny Rutherford and Al Unser ineligible for pole position attempts, refused to allow a turbo change on Wally Dallenbach's turbocharger and wouldn't extend qualifications when five drivers were caught waiting.

His last decision resulted in a Superior Court suit which was dismissed on a technicality that the race teams had not properly appealed to USAC.

One of those drivers was Larry "Boom Boom" Cannon. There are no hard feelings between Chief Steward and driver. Binford was quick to Cannon's aid after his Slimast Eagle spun out this week.

Now in his office, Binford enjoyed a chuckle. "Those drivers are almost sheepish now about having gone to court. Just now, Larry was extremely cordial and friendly, even complimentary. He said he'd never driven on a race track so clean."

Thomas W. Binford won't become an Indianapolis 500 institution. "Maybe this is the last year. I've never thought it would be more than two or three," he said.

"Somebody asked me last year on television if I'd come back. And I said, 'Yes, to do it right.'"

He could walk away right now, knowing the Indianapolis 500 is again the world's most prestigious auto race. Nineteen seventy-three's misery seems so far away.

Besides, it's no easy job being Chief Steward here. Binford knows that: "I'd rather leave 12 years too soon than 12 minutes too late."

Ali wakes up; TKOs Lyle in 11th

Muhammad Ali pounded Ron Lyle into total submission at 1:08 of the 11th round Friday night to retain his world heavyweight championship.

Ali missed his prediction of an eighth round knockout by a wide margin after he failed to do much of anything but change styles over the first ten rounds. After five rounds of mostly laying on the ropes Ali went into his dance for a couple more sets and finally displayed some serious action from the eighth round on although neither he nor Lyle absorbed much punishment going into the 11th.

A strong right finally caught Lyle flush in the face and Ali pounced on him like a cat, reeling him off the ropes at both ends of the ring before referee Fred Hernandez stopped the fight despite the protests of Lyle and his manager for a TKO.

A crowd estimated at 6,500 paid somewhat less than $300,000 to see Ali score his 34th knockout and up his record to 47-2. The income from ABC television guaranteed Ali his $1 million paycheck plus the $100,000 Lyle earned in absorbing his third defeat in 37 bouts.

Sox win late, Cubs lose early

Reliever Dennis Eckersley hit Buddy Bradford with the bases loaded and then walked Jorge Orta to force in the winning run and help the Chicago White Sox stage a three-run ninth inning rally for a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Meanwhile in San Diego, Enzo Hernandez drove in three runs and Mike Ivie slammed out three hits to pace a 8-2 Padre win over the Cubs.

Rookie Jim Kern yielded just three hits and struck out nine sailing into the ninth inning with a 2-0 shutout in tow but was lifted after walking Bill Melton and the roof proceeded to cave in on the Indians. The ceiling fell in on the Cubs much sooner — the first three innings — when San Diego built up a 6-0 lead at the rate of two a frame off starter Bill Bonham.

In another game on the West Coast, Los Angeles Dodger twirler Don Sutton had a no-hit effort broken up by three straight Pittsburgh hits in the eighth inning and the Pirates went on to card a 3-2 victory on Al Oliver's ninth inning homer.

MUHAMMAD ALI throws a solid right jab into the chin of Ron Lyle en route to an 11th round TKO and retention of his heavyweight title.

And in other sports news . . .

Billy Casper shot a four-under par 60 to take a two-stroke lead at the end of the second round of the $150,000 New Orleans Open golf tourney . . . Two separate reports, one from World Football League President Chris Hemminger in Birmingham and one from Eugene Pullano, owner of new Winds franchise in Chicago, put Joe Namath very close to signing a $4 million contract to play with the WFL here next year.

The Montreal Organizing Committee for the 1976 Olympics said it would reopen its construction sites next week although it remained uncertain whether the workers would end their eight-day-old wild-cat strike . . . The Oakland As traded infielder Ted Kubiak to San Diego for 38-year-old right handed pitcher Sonny Siebert and in another move reactivated coach Dal Maxvill, a 13-year veteran shortstop.

Meadows family to preach - but where?

FUTURE BIBLE translators must learn to survive, and piloting a dugout canoe in jungle rivers is part of the game. This group, which trained with David and Joan Swift of Rolling Meadows, hasn't been able to break free from the river banks. They shared the water with poisonous snakes.

HEALTHY AND STRONG after three months' jungle-survival training, Joan and David Swift, Children Randy, 11, and Jeff, 6, will accompany them to a Latin American hostel, await a five-year assignment.

cluding a 9-month-old baby, were back at a jungle camp they had carved out themselves. Their shelters were lean-tos, their beds were hammocks, their companions were tarantulas.

"We just had to commit the children to the Lord and trust that He would take care of them," Mrs. Swift said. "They stayed well and weren't hurt."

The final stint of training was an eight-day visit with a family that spoke a different language.

THERE MRS. SWIFT learned to bathe in a stream used by the family's livestock, and still shudders thinking about it. Their hut was laced with cracks, and there were few moments when someone from the 20-member family was not peeking in or strolling through the door for a visit with the Swifts. Their final assignment was to throw a party for the family.

"We served popcorn, hot chocolate and no-bake cookies," Mrs. Swift said.

Their son Randy developed a fever there, and was flown to a mission hospital where he stayed three days before recovering.

"The most valuable thing was the taste of what it's like to live in another culture, the stresses and adjustments and communicating with people who don't speak English," Swift said. They said the best things about being back are friends, cleanliness and food, the bread and lettuce and whole milk they craved while they were gone.

PART OF A GROUP of 60 people, they took in a threefold program of academics, physical development and a "handyman-type thing," Mrs. Swift learned to use hand tools, to dismantle and reassemble a lantern, to make a stove out of mud and to cook on it. Swift learned to cook and bake bread. They both learned elementary clinic care, giving shots, diagnosing and treating common jungle diseases, delivering babies and even stitching wounds. Their basic dental training included pulling teeth.

The base camp is in the Mexican state of Chiapas, about 30 miles north of the Guatemalan border, where the predominant language is Tzeltal. The Swifts speak it haltingly. They also learned individual Bible study methods and ways to adapt to a new culture.

Their life in a Wycliffe hostel will not be as strenuous as their training. The family will manage a hostel which will be a refuge for Bible translators from the rigors of jungle life.

WHEREVER THEY GO, their home likely will "resemble an apartment building or motel in the states, but with less conveniences," Swift said. It may have electricity only part of every day, for example. Their children, Randy, 11, and Jeff, 6, probably will attend an embassy school for at least a year, but then will be flown to missionary schools for the rest of their education and spend only part of the time living with their parents.

The new home will be more comfortable than those they experienced in training. The most convenient place they lived was a mud hut in base camp. At least it had a thatched roof and walls, although there was no plumbing and electricity was limited to a couple hours each day.

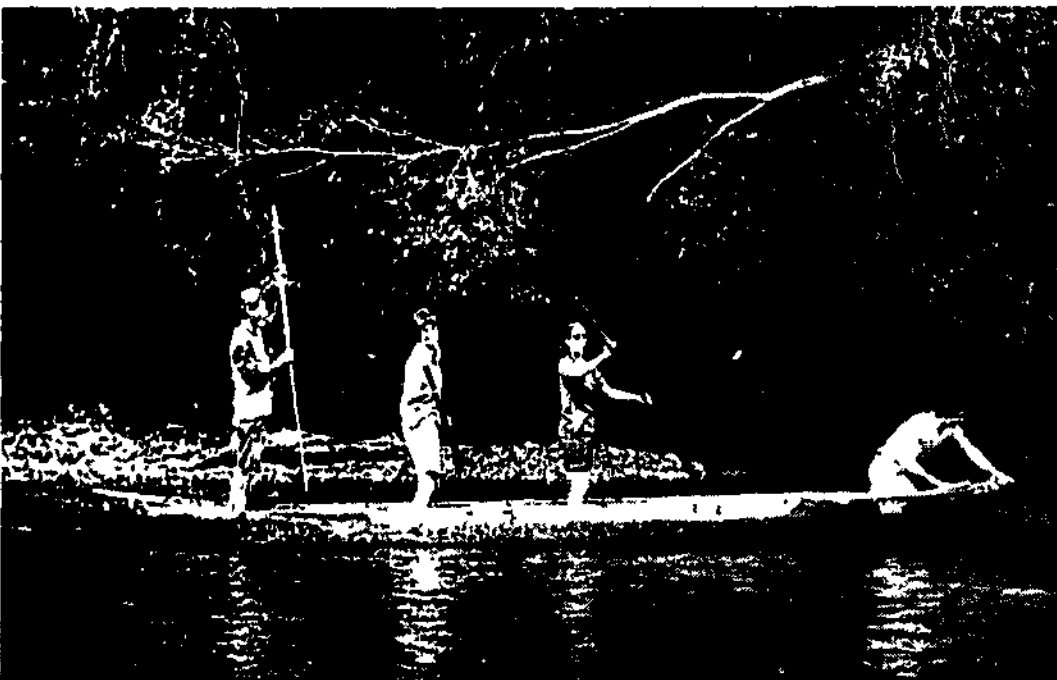

The Swifts have been back at their home at 3701 Bobwhite Ln. for about three weeks. They are waiting for their assignment, and expect to be at work within six months.

They don't know where.

EVERY TOWN HAS its washday — even the base camp in Chiapas, Mexico, where the David Swift family began jungle-survival training for Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. The Rolling Meadows family found the house in background represented its most comfortable home during the three-month training period.

YOU CAN'T EVEN ROW this boat, a hollowed log. It's known as pole power. Vines along the bank provide drinking water, a la Tarzan, as David Swift learned in four days alone in the jungles of southern Mexico.

Spring's here — it's apple blossom time

Because of the late spring, apple blossom time in Northern Illinois this year was delayed for about a week. The blossoms that just appeared are expected to continue through the month.

Wauconda Orchards is hosting an "Apple Blossom Walk" in the orchard now through June 1. On weekends there will be free hayrides in the orchards, and visitors are encouraged to bring their cameras and record nature in full bloom.

Richard Breeden, manager of the Northern Illinois Apple Growers Assn., said late springs are an encouraging sign for the fruit grower, for potential frost damage is reduced as the season advances.

Bees will also be out in full force as they carry pollen from one apple blossom to another. But have no fear of getting stung. They will be too busy making honey.

Wauconda Orchards is located 1 1/2 miles north of Ill. Rte. 176 on Fairfield and Gossell Roads.

Apple blossoms may also be seen at Jonathan Orchards, Wadsworth; Edward's Orchard, Poplar Grove; Quiga Orchard, Mundelein; and Bell's Orchard, Barrington.

Springtime — it's wildflower time on nature's land

by LEA TONKIN

Wildflowers that bloom in the spring are an invitation to see, touch and smell.

For those who chance by a woods within the next three weeks, the quiet pastime of watching wildflowers should be rewarding. Walking at a leisurely pace, a woodland visitor may find a clump of blue violets, the small curling canopy of a jack-in-the-pulpit and the delicate beauty of wild geranium.

"Wildflowers are psychologically important to people," said Charles Westcott, naturalist at the Crabtree Nature Center south of Barrington. "People are airing themselves out, assuring themselves after some particularly wet weather."

THERE IS ONE requirement in the search for springtime blossoms: take your time.

"Too many people are in a hurry, and they're missing enjoyment," Westcott said.

The late spring weather delayed the coming of many flowers, so there still is time to seek them out in undisturbed, shady areas. Species like the Trout Lily, with its mottled leaves and single white blossom, should be abundant. Many spring wildflowers seem to like the sunshine, making a showy appearance at midday.

THE THREE BROAD leaves of the Great White Trillium and the smaller red Prairie Trillium are distinctive among early spring wildflowers. In this group, the wood Anemone, violets and the Virginia Bluebells still may be seen. Bluebells are plentiful in river bottomlands where there is rich, deep soil. Some Dutchman's breeches, with ferny leaves and a string of miniature blooms, still may remain.

Within the next two weeks, May apple blossoms may appear beneath the um-without causing damage to wildlife. Wildflowers may not be picked from county nature centers. Yet the flower-anarching and digging activity continues to endanger brella of deeply notched leaves. Virginia Waterleaf, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Solomon's Seal and buttercup blossoms sprout in the succession of flowers.

A sense of serendipity marks the springtime wildflower walk.

"The only sure thing is change," Westcott said. "In each season, sometimes in each day, there is change."

WEATHER CONDITIONS can hasten or delay the appearance of wildflowers, and the predominance of one species will vary from year to year.

There is much to enjoy in the outdoors some species on public and private lands, Westcott said.

Persons interest in acquiring wildflowers can buy from commercial sources or check construction sites where grading activity displaces native plants. Westcott suggests wildlife photography as a rewarding, harmless hobby.

THE MOST IMPORTANT aspect of outdoor appreciation is not simple recognition of plants and animals, Westcott believes.

"It is to get an idea of plants and animals, their place in time and their place in the whole scheme of things," he said. "And if nothing else, they will find how people fit into the system."

"As you drive out into the country, your attitude expands," Westcott said. When people begin to appreciate wildlife, they can understand how the quality of life is affected by development and urbanization, he said.

"Our philosophy is to get people out on their feet, to see how they relate to wildlife," he said. "Life for everyone isn't a walk in the woods. But for me, it is."

A grown-up recaptures museum magic

by BARRY SIGALE

The world as seen through the eyes of a child looks fresh and totally wondrous. The good experiences are kept in a safe place upstairs, the distortions pushed aside. The spirit, then, can be recaptured at any time.

Return now to the Museum of Science and Industry, a cosmic corner where reality and visions are extracted from the mind of man and unfolded in spectacular fashion for the enthralled masses.

Everyone, seemingly, has been there, sampling the wizardry, testing the waters, imagining he or she were navigating a great submarine, hurtling through space in a command module or possessed of the strength of one Paul Bunyan. For sure, going back after many years can be eye-opening. Though the displays, exhibits and demonstrations remain mostly the same the new perspective, as an adult, is

A few facts about the museum on Page 8

as rewarding as the previous proportions.

TO AN impressionable youngster, the museum was bigger than life. There seemed to be two dozen airplanes hanging overhead (there are only six), the trip in the coal mine a three-hour journey (it's about 15 minutes) into the bowels of the Earth, the baby chicks and ducks hatched from ostrich eggs and just as large coming out.

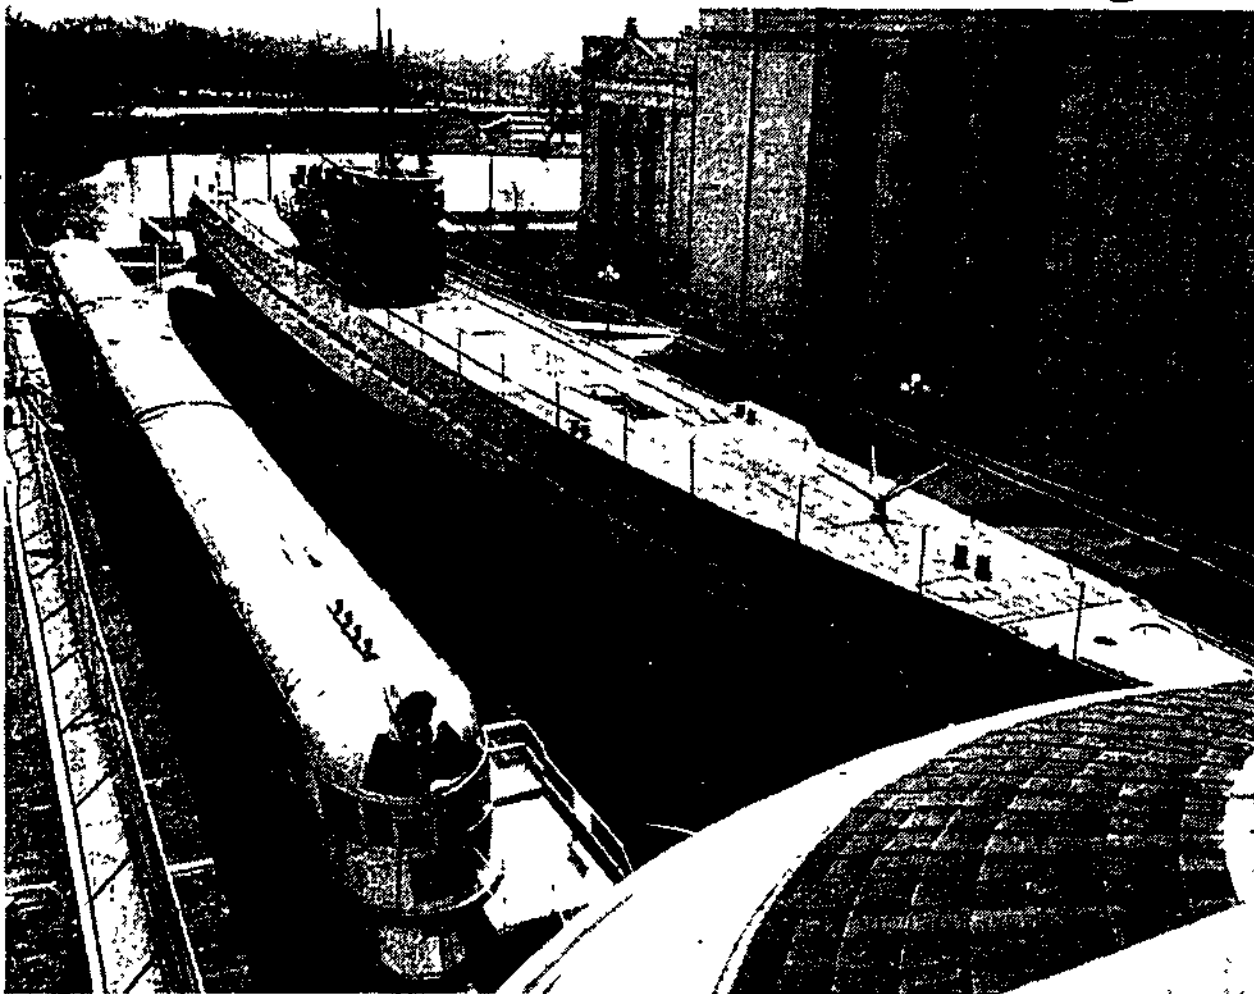

People brought up in the push-button age are at home among the hundreds of exhibits depicting the laws of science and applications of technology in industry and other fields. There is no hands-off policy. Touching is encouraged. Participation is anticipated.

Making displays work, as in setting in motion the elements that answer the mysteries of physics, is a part of the entire picture. There are displays that talk while they instruct, as in the transparent anatomical manikin (TAM), which blurts, "This is my gall bladder," or make noise like the giant walk-through human heart, which eerily beats out a "thump-thump" sound.

Highlighting the accomplishments of today and the dreams of tomorrow, the museum has been host to 83 million persons since it opened in 1933 in the old Palace of Fine Arts, the only remaining structure from the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893.

CHICAGO'S leading tourist attraction, the museum drew more customers — 3.5 million — up its huge staircase last year than the combined paid attendance of the Museum revisited: yes, the wonder is still there . . .

White Sox, Cubs, Bears, Bulls and Black Hawks. Only the Smithsonian Institution, with exhibits in 11 buildings, attracted more patrons.

The museum was founded by philanthropist Julius Rosenwald, whose $3 million gift prompted business and industrial leaders to work on the project. Eventually, Rosenwald's financial commitment rose to $7 million and the scope of the idea grew.

There was only a handful of exhibits in the museum's initial year, when 300,000 persons visited. Today there are more than 2,000 exhibits in 75 major halls scattered over 14 acres. The museum's permanent exhibits are estimated to be worth $60 million.

The museum plays to a large number of repeat visitors, proof perfect, officials say, that there is no such thing as being bored or a person saying, "I've seen it all. I'm not going back."

There are no specific suggestions offered that will allow visitors to get the most out of their day (the average stay is three hours, 36 minutes). There is no traffic pattern given to save shoe leather. Just follow the floor plan and be on your way.

ENTERING the main floor, the visitor is first attracted by the British Spitfire warplane, hanging alone now that its companion aircraft, the German Stuka, fell while being lowered for cleaning. It was sent to Milwaukee for repairs and remains at a museum there for display.

Anyone with a "must-see" list has to have the U-505 German submarine and coal mine at the top of it. Each attracted 600,000 persons last year alone. After that, it's strictly personal taste that takes over as waves of visitors poke through the museum looking for the exhibits that interest them.

• Circus. The U.S. Army studied the efficiencies of circuses, especially how a couple of hundred clowns, tightrope walkers, jugglers and others time after time put up and took down the circus big top and its three rings. Then they tried to apply the techniques in World War II.

This museum attraction, replete with more than 22,000 handcarved figurines and a midway ramp is especially well-received by children. Its glass-enclosed miniature displays provide a graphic insight into the circus world.

The function of each performer is explained and the side show Barker strums up business. "Inside see Slim Jim Courtney and Jolly Marge, the thinnest and heaviest persons alive. Jolly is paid a salary, not by the hour, not by the week, but by the pound."

A couple of side attractions are fun. One is a hole in the wall where you can put your face in and special lights flash to show what you'd look like as a clown. The other is an award-winning film on the circus with special effects projected on a huge, vertical screen.

• Submarine. Whatever did they do with claustrophobic German sailors? How could they ever manage to live and function effectively on a ship with quarters so small and so confined?

"It was desperately overcrowded," says a tour guide to the crowd. "When one man rolled out of the bunk another rolled in. They were short of supplies . . ."

Visitors more than 6 feet tall must duck

Museum building example of classic Greek architecture

• The Museum of Science and Industry attracted 3.6 million persons in 1974, an all-time attendance record, and has drawn 83 million visitors in 40 years.

• The structure, the old Palace of Fine Arts, built for the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893 and restored for housing exhibits and displays, is considered one of the finest examples of classic Greek architecture.

• Inside, there are more than 2,000 exhibit units in 75 major exhibit halls scattered over 14 acres. It is estimated that the museum's permanent exhibits are worth $60 million.

• Admission to the museum is free, though a handful of exhibits have small admission charges. Public dining rooms are located on the ground floor and facilities are available if you bring your own lunch. Tour guides and other personnel provide on-the-spot information and directions.

• The museum is open every day except Christmas Day. Summer hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays and holidays.

• Located at 57th Street and S. Lake Shore Drive, the museum is easily accessible to Northwest suburbanites. One way is to take the Northwest Tollway to the Kennedy Expressway, exit at Congress Parkway (the last exit before the Dan Ryan Expressway begins) and proceed eastbound through the downtown area to S. Lake Shore Drive and 57th Street.

• For persons living closer to Ill. Rte. 63, take the expressway to the Eisenhower Expressway, which leads into S. Lake Shore Drive.

• A word of caution. When leaving the museum, making a left turn into the northbound lanes can be very dangerous because high-speed traffic in both directions. Sometimes a policeman is stationed there for safety purposes, but sometimes not. An alternative is to take Hyde Park Boulevard (which begins immediately north of the center of the building) north to 47th Street, then go two blocks east to the Drive.

HONORING THE PHILATELY OF CANADA

An honor for COMPEX '75

The U.S. Postal Service has authorized a special philatelic cancellation marking COMPEX 1975 (The Combined Philatelic Exhibition of Chicago and), which opens at 10 a.m. Friday at the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

The exhibit, honoring the Philately of Canada, features a 52-dealer bourse and 1,000 frames of stamps and covers. It will be presented through Sunday, May 25.

Collectors desiring the special cancellation should send stamped, self-addressed envelopes to COMPEX Station, Chicago 60602. The cancellation will be in use only during the exhibit weekend. There is no charge for this service.

Stamp notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

A SOUVENIR card honoring ARPHILA 75, the International Philatelic Exhibition being held in Paris, will be issued June 6 by the U.S. Postal Service.

To complement the art theme of the exhibition, the card features reproductions of the 1965 French stamp depicting Raoul Dufy's "The Red Violin" (Scott No. 1117), the 1962 U.S. Winslow Homer "Breezing Up" (No. 1207) and Frederick Remington's "The Smoke Signal" (No. 1187) released in 1961.

The cards will be available by mail after June 6 from The Philatelic Sales Division, Washington, D.C. 20265. They are $1 each plus a 50-cent handling charge per order.

An earlier souvenir card honoring ESPANA 75 was released April 4 and is also available, at the same price, from the Philatelic Sales Division.

THE NORTHWEST Stamp Club will feature a "Wild Card Night" at its next meeting, 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Arlington Heights Public Library, 600 E. Dunton.

Frank Flecher reports the club has six new adult members and eight new junior members. Visitors are always welcome at the meetings which are held twice a month during the school year and monthly during the summer.

Summer meetings are scheduled for Monday, June 16 (featuring a speaker), Thursday, July 17 (quiz and prizes) and Tuesday, Aug. 12 ("Swap night").

The smell of (whew) spring

Well, those smelly dead fish are washing up on the beaches again. Alewives! They wandered into Lake Michigan from the Atlantic seacoast by accident; and in the last 20 years, they have been responsible for many of the changes in native fish populations.

Since they are better adapted to salty ocean water than our Lake, many of them die each spring, though not in the huge numbers of 1967 when city bulldozers worked all summer to clear the beaches. Those alewives that don't die may very well be feeding the voracious salmon that are the sport fisherman's delight. One of the many reasons salmon were stocked in the Lake was to help control alewife populations.

Since alewives are a part of the underwater world of living things, they are displayed at the Shedd Aquarium, 1200 S. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago. They are in Gallery III, temperate salt water, and have two green sea turtles, spottin hogfish and horseshoe crabs for company. The small, herring-like alewives keep close together in a school, circling and feeding much as they do in their natural habitat. In this way, Chicagoans can better understand this little pest as part of the ocean community it inhabits.

Scott collection for auction in June

On June 5, 6, and 7 the American Auction Assn. division of Bowers and Ruddy Galleries will sell at public auction the famous Scott Collection. The sale, to be held in conjunction with the Long Beach, Calif., International Coin and Stamp Exposition, contains over 3,000 lots, including a dazzling array of rarities in United States, ancient and world coins.

The Scott Collection catalog, consisting of over 200 pages in large magazine-type format, and with over 1,000 photographic illustrations, will take its place among the finest sales catalogs ever produced. It will be a numismatic reference for many years to come.

Stanley Scott (1889-1967) collected coins for nearly 50 years. He found his greatest pleasure in items that complimented his interests in colonial and revolutionary Americana, with a special regard for George Washington, although he did not overlook other series. In fact, his greatest interest was cosmopolitan and covered many different specialties.

The Scott Collection of Washington pieces is probably the last of its kind, comprising as it does several hundred different pieces.

MOST OF THE Washington pieces are either scarce, rare or extremely rare while others are at least unique. Many have not been publicly offered at auction for many years.

Outstanding in the Washington section are colonial coins, Washington medals and many other desirable issues.

American colonial coins represented in the Scott collection catalog include over three dozen silver coins of Massachusetts such as the Oak Tree and Pine Tree pieces and a superb offering of 1776 Continental dollars consisting of different varieties.

Of particular interest is the 1783 Revolutionary War peace medal with the reverse design styled after the 1776 Continental dollar. This piece is one of the rarest and most desirable early American medals issued.

U.S. currency in the Scott Collection

Mint offers gifts for Father's Day

The second annual series of Father's Day gift items is being offered by the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights.

The 1975 Father's Day ingot, titled "A Father's Joy," portrays a father sharing a moment with his sons. It is offered in three different versions, .999 fine silver, 24-carat gold-on-fine silver, and in solid 18-carat gold.

Each of the gift "collectibles" was created as part of a limited edition. Applications for the ingot must be postmarked before June 21. The versions cost $12.95, $17.95 and $300. They are available from the Hamilton Mint, Dept. NR, 40 E. University Dr., Arlington Heights 60001.

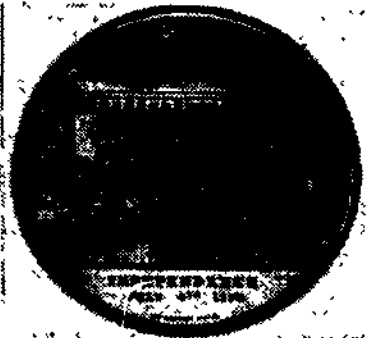

Collecting coins by Mort Reed

This is the last column of "Collecting Coins," by Mort Reed. The feature has been discontinued by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

includes rare early notes such as First Charter National Bank notes in choice condition.

Matt Rothert, distinguished past president of the American Numismatic Assn., whose main collection of coins and currency was sold at auction, has consigned to the present sale his display collection of fractional currency.

ANCIENT COINS offered in the Scott Collection catalog comprise nearly 200 lots and begin with an attractive Very Fine specimen of Carthaginian electrum staters, followed by an extensive selection of Byzantine gold. Greek issues are highlighted by silver tetradrachms of Leontini and Syracuse.

The selection of coins of the world in this collection would make an outstanding reference in itself. Offered are issues from many different ages and countries.

Scarce and interesting minor coins also are represented. For the medal collector there is a large and historically important German collection dealing with World War I.

Gold coins of the world represent one of the largest auction listings in recent times.

Copies of this fabulous Scott Collection catalog, which cost more than $10 per copy to produce, are available while they last at $3 each or $5 by air mail.

Direct orders or inquiries to Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, Suite 600, 6922 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

and squeeze to get through the submarine. At the end they can look through the periscope at the traffic on the Outer Drive or at the boats in Lake Michigan. But they have to stand in line to do so.

• Coal Mine. The museum is quiet but for the footing noise from the coal mine every 16 minutes as another batch of visitors out of breath from climbing to the top of the exhibit are lowered into the main shaft by hoist.

Once below ground the crowd is transported in caged-wire railroad cars (it's called a "man trip") to see simulated demonstrations of how coal is extracted from the walls.

In the safety room at the end of the tour, a demonstration is given to show how miners know whether it's safe to enter the shaft. A lamp containing methane gas is tested. If the air is poisonous a mini-explosion gives warning. "That fella's goin' to be late for dinner, that's for sure," says the demonstrator.

• Food for Life. In 20 years, a grand total of 521,000 chickens and ducks have been hatched in two special incubators. After that they are sent to poultry farms for their specialized purposes.

There seems to be nothing more intriguing at the museum than this poignant display of life at its beginning. The chicks take 21 days and the ducks 28 to hatch, which most of the eggs do eventually. Though ugly at birth, the birds' feathers finally become silky-smooth and are fawned over by children and adults alike.

• Mathematica, World of Numbers . . . and Beyond. Fascinating, since most people can't fathom any numerical problem where more than three numbers are involved. ("The theory of probabilities is nothing more than good sense confirmed by calculation.")

Youngsters manipulate the multiplication display, lighting bulbs which makes understanding easier. What's a Moebius Band? Why, a surface with one side and one edge: "If a fly were to walk around the surface it could walk on every part of the surface without crossing the edge."

Though you can't beat it, the computerized tic-tac-toe game is joined by thousands of hopefuls. "Everybody plays it, they can't resist it, but you cannot beat it," a museum spokesman sums up. Indeed the message on the side of the two game boards is clear: "Don't feel bad if you don't win. No one ever has."

Viewers nearly become hypnotized watching tiny steel balls used in ball bearings bounce uniformly and accurately. One ball drops onto a metal base, which caroms it off another base, which bounces the ball into a hole. The demonstration is repeated continuously in rapid fashion.

THERE ARE some zany exhibits, one a vintage car of the future, a whimsical 17-foot vehicle "powered" by boiled after-shave lotion. A self-playing harp sounds a few sharp arpeggios to clear traffic, while a crystal ball predicts what the motorist ahead is going to do. There is even a retractable barbecue for quick meals. Because it operates in place, the motorist derives such additional benefits as not running up any mileage, receiving parking tickets or sliding on wet pavement.

The museum has proven to be the place to go for just about every Chicagoan and thousands of out-of-towners. It is debatable whether youngsters can get a good grasp of all the goodies put before them. Even adults must return for a refresher course, the world changes so rapidly and the museum has to update and move things around. After all, one of the most frequently asked questions is "Where's the water fountain?"

For Pat, coming to Hollywood
a 'vacation'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It's been a decade since Patricia Neal suffered three massive strokes which almost claimed her life, but aside from a slight limp and a fuzzy memory the Academy Award-winning actress is as good as new.

Pat came to Hollywood last week from her home in Great Missenden, England, to star in an NBC-TV movie, "Eric," and will return to Britain this month.

"This is the first time I've worked this year," Pat said during a shooting break at the Burbank Studios, "and I love to act. I miss it."

PAT, 49, finds the quiet country life 30 miles outside London somewhat monotonous. She weeds the garden, shops for groceries in the village and pitches in with the housework now and then.

She and her author husband, Roald Dahl, are the parents of Lucy, 10, Ophelia, 11, and Theo, 15. Daughter Tessa, 18, studies drama in London.

"Roald has just completed the best children's book ever written, 'Danny, The Champion of the World,'" Pat went on. "And now he's started on another. His work keeps him busy. But I get restless."

"I love to leave home from time to time when I get nervous. And coming to work in Hollywood really is like a holiday for me."

"We entertain a great deal at home. Mostly neighbors stop by to play billiards with Roald in the evening and for dinner. But it doesn't occupy that much of my time. I was accustomed to more activity before my ghastly illness."

PAT SPEAKS openly about her series of strokes. Her brush with death serves as a point of reference. Her life is divided, before and after the illness.

"I've really taken advantage of that horrible period in my life," she said, laughing easily. "Since that time Roald has been in charge of everything around the house."

"He makes the plans and does most of the work I used to do, even though we have a maid, a nurse for the children, a cleaning woman and a secretary. Sometimes he even cooks."

"I was helpless for almost a year after my operation and had to learn to walk and talk all over again. Roald still thinks of me as fragile and unable to do a lot of things."

PATRICIA NEAL

"Of course, I'm almost fully recovered and have been for years. But I'm not about to disabuse him of the notion that I'm still reliant on him. Before the stroke I did all the things he does now."

PAT, WHO WON the best actress Oscar for "Hud" the year before her stroke, said she would like to make more motion pictures. She has worked in only three feature films since her illness.

"I did a movie in Nova Scotia some time last year, I think it was. But I don't remember the title. I still have trouble with remembering things. Before my ghastly illness I had a good memory," she said, "but not anymore."

"Hollywood producers haven't been offering me roles. And I haven't worked in England for years. Maybe it's because I'm still an American citizen, even though I've lived in Britain for more than 21 years."

"I WOULDN'T think of moving back to the United States permanently. Not even for a television series. I couldn't drag Roald away from England."

"I played the mother role in the television movie, 'The Homecoming,' which became 'The Waltons.' They didn't ask me to play the role in the series."

Pat smiled and shrugged. It didn't really matter.

Ask if she were happy. Pat thought for a long moment and replied, "Who's really happy? Let's say it is enough not to be unhappy and let it go at that."

In your TV Timeline, I read that "Star Trek" was coming back on TV and also that Gene Roddenberry has signed a contract with Paramount to produce a pilot in September. However, you didn't say if the show will still have the same characters as before. In addition, will Gene Roddenberry still be producing it? Please print a picture of Mr. Spock from the show.

M.N.

The revived "Star Trek" series is definitely going to be produced by Gene Roddenberry and it will probably have the same major stars in it (William Shatner as Capt. James T. Kirk, Leonard Nimoy as Mr. Spock and DeForest Kelly as Dr. McCoy). We don't know about any of the other characters for sure, so you'll just have to be surprised when the pilot premieres this fall.

When did Teresa Graves start her present series "Get Christie Love"? What movies has she been in? Please print her address and also her picture.

Teresa Graves

Teresa Graves was signed for the title role in "Get Christie Love" in November of 1973. That show was aired as ABC's "Tuesday Movie of the Week" on January 22, 1974. Teresa definitely carried the show and was hailed as "one of the best things that's happened to television in years." ABC signed her for "Get Christie Love," the new action-entertainment series, which premiered on television during the 1974 season.

Cast could be in musical
NBC's daytime drama "Days of Our Lives" is often tenebrously dramatic, but it easily could become a musical; the talent is there.
Macdonald Carey, who stars as Dr. Tom Horton, hit the big-time on Broadway playing opposite the late Gertrude Lawrence in the musical "Lady in the Dark." That was a long time ago, but "Mac" continues to take weekly voice and dancing lessons.
John Clarke, who plays Mickey Horton, began his show business career as a member of a college band and later performed with an Air Force instrumental and vocal group.
Susan Seaforth Hayes (Julie) started out, at age four, in a Metropolitan Opera presentation of "Madame Butterfly" and toured in "Oklahoma!"

Sal Matera an expert at exploiting his opponent

The main tenet of modern chess is dynamic play. Cede your opponent an impressive-looking pawn center, take a couple of bad pawn weaknesses yourself, or lose a pawn with no immediate material compensation, and you yet may win, if the activity of your pieces can keep your opponent too busy to exploit his own 'advantages.'

But dynamic chess is not for the faint of heart. Complications must be bravely welcomed though there is the inevitable danger they will backfire. Sharp and imaginative moves must be found again and again, as new problems are encountered.

Sal Matera is an extremely promising young American chess master. His 7½-2½ record in the 1974 World Student Team Olympiad at Teesside, England was an outstanding performance. There he impressively bested grandmasters Sax and Balashov of Hungary and the U.S.S.R. respectively.

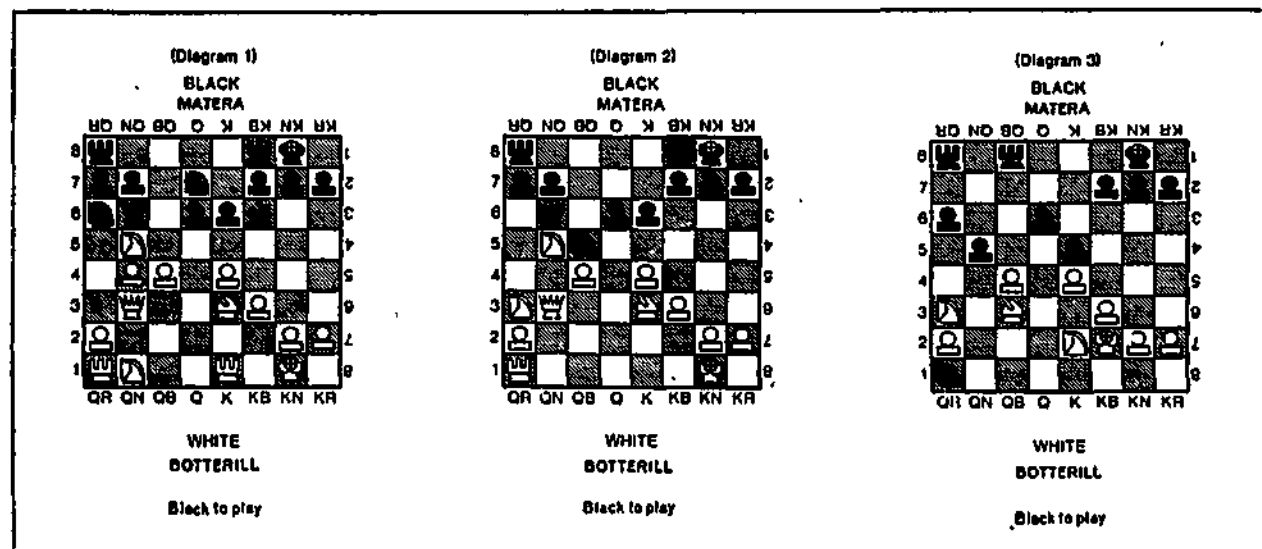

APPARENTLY ENGLAND inspires Matera. For recently he has registered another fine performance there. He has just tied for second in an international tournament in Birmingham. And he has celebrated the Bicentennial year with a delft win over the British champion, Botterill.

The latter game is modern (dynamic) chess, par excellence.

We first see Matera's exceptionally spirited intentions in Diagram One. White (Botterill) has just played 1. N-N5, blocking (Diagram 1) black's (Matera's) two-pronged attack on the queen knight's pawn, and uncovering the white queen's bishop on the black queen.

But the white position is overblown with pawn moves and the alert black pieces, including the king's bishop (which already attacks white's rook), will take some unusual liberties.

Matera played the surprising 1... N(2)-B4!! After 2. PxN, NxP; 3. QN-R3, BxR; 4. RxB, he has gained an exchange (rook for bishop) for a pawn and a knight. And he can win a second exchange (knight for a rook) beginning with NxQ. (Diagram 1).

BUT FIRST HE interposes 4... P-QR3, which forces the knight back to QB3. The black queen pawn is no longer under attack, and the knight will soon be in white's way:

After 5. N-B3, there followed 6... NxQ; 6. BxQ, NxR; 7. N-K2 (to prepare B-Q4 and BxN), P-K4 (hinder that plan); 8. B-R5 (threatening B-B3, with the same idea), P-QN4 (counterplay); 9. B-B3, KR-B1; 10. K-B2?? (Diagram 3)

Now Matera need not lose the knight. After 10... P-N5!, Botterill saw his mistake and resigned. For 11. BxP will allow... N-B7!; 12. NxN, and RxP, which must win more material.

A brilliant performance by Matera.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

West gets partially eliminated

If West makes a normal lead South gets in, knocks out the ace of trumps, gets in again, pulls the last trumps and makes his contract without any fanfare. He actually makes an overtrick if a spade is led.

When we watched this hand played, West was unkind enough to open the ace of clubs and continue the suit. After this start South would have come up a trick short if he had gone right after trumps. East would take his ace and give his partner a club ruff. West would get out with a diamond and wait for a spade trick.

South was well aware of this unpleasant possibility. He thought for quite a while and finally figured out a line of play that might bring home the bacon. He used what is known as a partial elimination play.

Instead of starting on trumps he cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and ruffed a third diamond with a high trump so as to guard against a possible overruff.

Then he led a trump. East took his ace and gave his partner a club ruff but that didn't do the defense any good. The partial elimination had worked. West was down to spades and had to lead one right up to declarer's nice tenace.

Daley forces at work New remap dilutes power-base of Mikva

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

BY BOB LAHEY
Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.
The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.
In the oddest-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.
The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.
In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

- Control of delegates to the 1976 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution.

- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.
Daley backers are telling Downstaters that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.
SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention. The original map introduced by Partee — which is still the only proposal formally before the Senate — would, for instance, throw three North Shore state central committee members into one district.
The three, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago; and 10th District Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka, all led delegations in 1972. All three delegations were committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen. Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.
As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.
"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.
Simon's district was not affected by the first map introduced by Partee. But the former Lieutenant governor and long-time friend of Mikva has been urging legislators to adopt a map which would protect Mikva.
"It looks like they're saying to Simon, 'We'll teach you to interfere,'" Marco said.

Maine Township salesman

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.
Willie Sampson, 29, of 8632 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.
Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.
Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.
Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.
He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.
Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanjek of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

Family learns Bible work -- in the jungle

Swifts to leave Rolling Meadows to translate God's word ... where ?

by NANCY COWGER
For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.
But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.
Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.
"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and had nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.
While Swift was trying to survive, the women and children, in-

Improved phone system goes into operation today

It will take a few clicks, a whirl and a pull of a string and the final section of Central Telephone Co.'s crossbar-switching system will go into action today.

The string-pulling, which connects all the switches, will come at the expense of 60,000 man hours of labor and $3.4 million. The new equipment will allow customers with 296 and 299 prefixes to have touch-tone phones, and place calls more quickly than with dial phones.

The fifth crossbar is the name assigned to two giant floors of the company's facilities at 767 Pearson St., Des Plaines. In reality the machine is a complicated collection of wires, switches and dials all designed to allow people to talk to one another.

Louis S. Rainer, who fathered the crossbar system along in the area for the past eight years, said the racks of metal plates allow the company to handle the volume of calls made into the area. The company provides service to more than 70,000 customers in Des Plaines, Park Ridge and a portion of Mount Prospect.

HE NOTED that the new system includes more than 125,000 feet of wire and 245,000 feet of cable. Company officials indicated that the changeover from older step-switching equipment, which required separate devices for incoming and outgoing calls, was accomplished with only slight interruption to customers.

Besides affecting the two exchanges, the new equipment also will allow for development of the 635 exchange.

Company officials said the new system, along with more than $7 million in other improvements, have been made with only one general increase in phone rates over the past 10 years.

Calls Monoson proposal 'hogwash'

Green raps idea to bring builders before plan unit

THE GOOD EARTH at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is tended by parents at the school — once a year at least. A special day for parents to plant trees, shrubs and flowers while working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerrin, who helped in planting.

by LUISA GINETTI

James Green, a member of the Wheeling Environmental Advisory Commission, has criticized a proposal by Trustee Gilbert Monoson to have developers appear before the plan commission rather than the zoning board of appeals to request rezonings.

Green said Monoson's proposal was not backed by valid reasoning and he called the proposal "hogwash."

"His reasoning just doesn't hold water," Green said. "When the plan commission studies a project it doesn't consider environmental questions for example, so we could use the same reasoning to suggest that our commission be the first agency to hear a developer's request."

Monoson proposed that a public hearing be scheduled to determine if the plan commission or the zoning board should hear developers' initial requests for zoning.

THE TRUSTEE, a former plan commission member, said because zoning matters deal with land use, they should be considered first by the plan commission, which is charged with studying land-use requests. The zoning board, Monoson said, should be allowed to hear only requests for variances in zoning such as sideyard lots and setbacks.

Although there is no set policy for initial developer hearings, the village has made it a practice to have developers go before the zoning board first to request rezoning. Plans are then sent to the plan commission.

Green said he also objected to the fact that the public hearing on the proposal will be conducted by the plan commission, which he said is a biased group since this is the agency Monoson has proposed be the initial review group.

Green suggested his fellow commissioners plan to attend the public hearing, which has yet to be scheduled, and make their views known.

GREEN ALSO suggested the environmental commission hold a joint meeting with the village board to set down definite guidelines by which the commission can operate.

Monoson said Friday Green should have waited to criticize the plan until the public hearings. He said the majority of the village board members think the environmental commission should review projects in detail before they are approved by the trustees. He added that the issue will be clarified at the public hearings.

Suburban Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention dele-

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-21st, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another now county.

On Schoenbeck, Camp McDonald roads

Schools seeking $25,000 from U.S. for sidewalks

Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 will apply for $25,000 in Federal Community Housing and Development Act funds to install blacktop sidewalks along two streets.

The sidewalks will be installed on the west side of Schoenbeck Road between Hintz and Camp McDonald roads and on the north side of Camp McDonald Road between Elm Street and Elmhurst Road.

Dist. 23 board members first considered installing sidewalks installed on the heavily traveled Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads in September. Although the district could not afford the installation, officials learned that federal funding is available through the Cook County board.

FLETCHER ENGINEERING Co. of Des Plaines is surveying the sidewalk locations to determine the cost of the project, said James Hendren, Dist. 23 business manager.

Hendren said the engineering survey has revealed potential structural problems that might raise the estimated cost or necessitate moving the walks to the other side of the street. The report should be ready next week.

Extra foundation work would be required in low areas, he said, and shrub removal or driveway adjustments might become necessary in some places.

Offer swimming program at Buffalo Grove High pool

A swim clinic and training program is under way at the Aqua Dome Swimming Pool at Buffalo Grove High School.

The Buffalo Grove Park District is conducting the clinic from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays until June 13.

The fee is $3 for children under high school age and $5 for high school students.

The park district also is conducting tryouts for the summer swim team, on Saturdays beginning this week and ending May 31.

Each tryout session will be from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Aqua Dome pool.

Workouts for competition training on the swim team are in session Monday through Friday.

One session is from 8 to 10 a.m. at Willow Stream Pool. Others are from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Aqua Dome.

Home meets are on Wednesdays at the Aqua Dome and other competitions will be scheduled on weekends.

The fee is $15 for individual residents, $25 per family. Nonresidents will be charged $25 individually or $35 per family.

Those swimmers intending to participate on the diving team will pay the same rates, but passes will not be transferrable.

For information and sign-up, call Vian Wadford, swim coach, or his assistant, Matt Zukowski, evenings at 459-0480.

Goal of industrial commission

Official hopes to bring industry to village in 1 year

THE GOOD EARTH at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is tended by parents at the school — once a year at least. A special day for parents to plant trees, shrubs and flowers while working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerrin, who helped in planting.

by BETTY LEE

Buffalo Grove's new industrial commission will set a goal of one year to get industry into the village to improve the tax base, Michael R. Kearns said Friday.

Kearns was appointed recently to head an industrial development commission that soon will be formed to bring industry to the community.

"I don't know all the stumbling blocks that may have to be removed," Kearns said. "But I would like to see industry within a year's time . . . at least one operation."

A major task would be to bring the first industrial development in, Kearns said. The first company can be a "reference point" for all other potential industry, he said.

"When others are looking at an already established industry, they can ask 'how do you like it here?', or 'how do they treat you?'" Kearns said.

THE COMMISSION will concentrate on bringing light industry to the village which will include research and development type businesses, Kearns said.

"Light industry is really the market we are looking at," he said. "We won't have smokestacks . . . we don't have the type of land for that."

"I don't think the community is aware of what industry will do for it," Kearns said.

Industry would bring more commercial development to the village, he said. Buffalo Grove also will be more attractive because it will provide employment.

Another important feature of industry would be revenue, Kearns said. The village tax base would be broadened.

The village has long sought industry by forming the industrial development committee about two years ago and economic development commission in 1971 to spur general industry and business.

About 700 acres have been designated for industrial development. Most of the land is northeast of the village between Lake-Cook and Aptakisic roads.

There also are some smaller areas south of Deerfield Road, east of Milwaukee Avenue and west of Arlington Heights Road on Dundee Road.

Maine Township salesman

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 29, of 8652 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

Family learns Bible work -- in the jungle

Swifts to leave Rolling Meadows

by NANCY COWGER

For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.

But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.

Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.

"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and hand nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.

While Swift was trying to survive, the women and children, in-

REP. PHILIP M. CRANE

ROMAN PUCINSKI

New remap hurts strength of Mikva

by BOB LAHEY

Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.

The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.

In the oddest-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.

The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

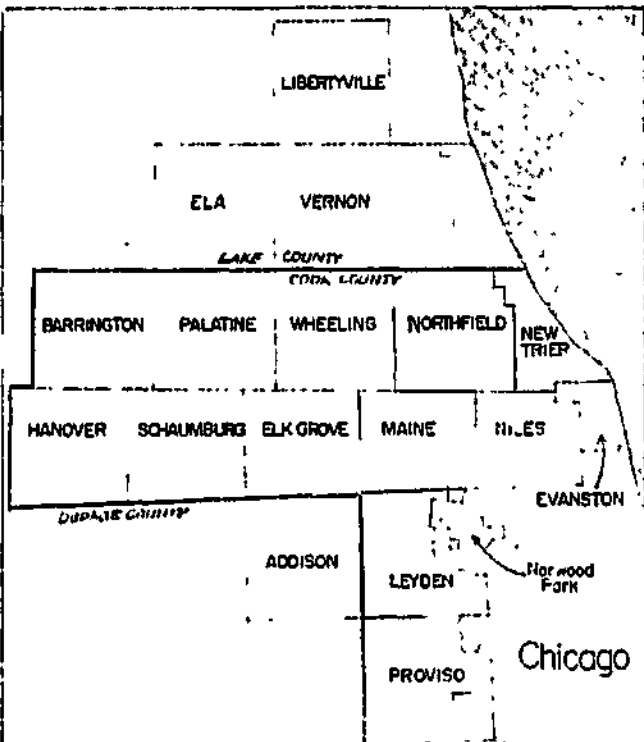

- Control of delegates to the 1978 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution.
- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Perry in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstate that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention. The original map introduced by Partee — which is still the only proposal formally before the Senate — would, for instance, throw three North Shore state central committeemen into one district.

The three, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago; and 10th District Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka, all led delegations in 1972. All three delegations were committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen.

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evan-

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 20, of 8652 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnaping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnaping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

Sexual bias in textbooks has become an issue with Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 board members who refused to purchase a home economics text because it contains sex-role stereotyping.

Three home economics books were presented to the board. Two were approved but the book "Teen Horizons" was discarded following a 3-to-3 vote. Teachers must select another text to replace the rejected book.

Board member Sherry Reynolds said the book has "a tendency to get into very strict role delineation."

Reynolds said since all available textbooks are discriminatory, she was willing to purchase the book if teachers were trained to recognize the passages containing sexual bias and to circumvent them. Reynolds said the district's "general commitment" to avoiding sex discrimination is "not sufficient" without the training.

Board Pres. Edward Bedard questioned whether special training was necessary if the book "is a basically good book that is being taught in a good school district by basically good teachers." He called for a yes or no vote on the text and the result was a 3-to-3 tie. Board member Gordon Thoren was absent.

THE BOARD ALSO refused to act on the purchase of a music textbook which was criticized as being religiously biased by a member of the board's education committee.

Committee member William Sachs objected to a song in one of the books that contained the words "King Jesus." He said the song would be offensive to students "who do not profess a belief in Jesus."

Supt. Wayne Schaible said just because a book contains a religious painting or song doesn't mean the school is teaching religion, he said.

The board agreed to send the book back to the music teachers' committee to search for a way to use the book so it is not offensive to students.

"One of the things that we are heading toward, I'm afraid, is a book-burning spree," Bedard said.

Reynolds objected to Bedard's remark saying that people concerned with bias in textbooks are not "the least bit interested in the destruction of any book." That idea is "a myth and misconception perpetrated by off-the-cuff comments," he said.

For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.

But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.

Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.

"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and had nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.

'Traditional' Jewish group organized

A Schaumburg Township group concerned with preserving traditional Jewish values has organized to form Or Chadash Traditional Congregation.

The group will meet at 604 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, site of Woodfield Community Hebrew School. In addition to the religious services, social functions and communal activities, the congregation will sponsor Woodfield Community Educational Center, which will operate the Hebrew School, an all-day school and Sunday school.

Or Chadash will retain the services of Rabbi Michael Myers, who will officiate at religious services and Oneg Shabbats Friday evenings.

Myers also will serve as principal of the new Jewish all-day school which will hold classes next fall at Beth Tikvah Congregation, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

Goals of the congregation are to foster traditional Jewish values through education and to support the educational opportunities offered by the Associated Talmud Torahs of Chicago, as presented by Myers, said Milton Jacobs and Elaine Mendelsohn, spokesmen for the congregation.

Information on the congregation or school programs may be obtained by calling the office, 529-0390.

Roller rink on Roselle Rd. to open July 3

A roller rink planned at 850 N. Roselle Rd. is scheduled to open July 3, the owner told the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission this week.

Ray Keegan, planning the rink, said the tentative date has been set for the facility, which will house three skating rinks, a pro shop, snack bar and small game room. Keegan said he has been contacted by the Schaumburg Park District on possible use of the rink for park programs. Comr. Shirley Gibbons, also a Hoffman Estates Park District commissioner, said the district will likely also consider requesting the facility for programming.

An office-factory building was given preliminary approval by the plan commission. The building, planned in the Barrington Square Industrial Park near Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway, would serve the Xonics company, a West Coast-based firm that manufactures X-ray equipment.

Groups sought for holiday parade

Civic and youth organizations are being encouraged to participate in the May 30 Memorial Day parade sponsored by Raymond K. Hartmann VFW Post 8080 and Schaumburg Rotary Club.

Applications for color guard and marching units can be obtained from Charles J. DePaul, post commander, 189 E. Berkley Ln., Hoffman Estates. The parade is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. at the Hoffman Estates Youth Center (old village hall), 181 Illinois Blvd., and travel northeast on Illinois Blvd. to Roselle Road, south to Schaumburg Road and east to St. Peter Lutheran Cemetery where a special veterans graveside ceremony will be held.

Questions on parade arrangements should be addressed to DePaul, 833-4368.

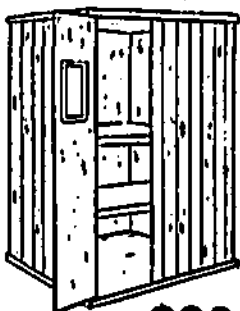

Kenneth B. Wolmer, 529-7321, is coordinating the project for the Rotary Club.

Parks hope to hire off-duty policemen

Schaumburg Park District officials hope to hire two or three off-duty policemen for security patrol positions.

Security personnel will be hired for a six-month period from May through October, said Paul Derba, director of parks and recreation. Derba said he has scheduled a meeting with Police Chief Martin J. Conroy to "explore the possibility" of hiring off-duty patrolmen.

A maximum pay rate of $5 per hour has been set for the jobs, Derba said.

Sanitary district gives village Dec. 31 deadline

The Metropolitan Sanitary District Board Thursday set a Dec. 31 deadline for the village of Hoffman Estates to finish renovating local sewers.

The board also set an intermediate deadline of Sept. 15 for the village to complete an inspection program of manholes.

By Dec. 31, manhole repairs must be completed, sewer-flow levels measured and illegal connections to the sanitary-sewer system eliminated.

The sanitary district order threatens a lawsuit against the village if the deadlines are not met and an effort to fine the village $100 to $1,000 per day for violations after Dec. 31.

Other municipalities in Cook County are facing similar deadlines. The sewer repair work, which is aimed at keeping storm drainage out of sanitary-sewer systems, is a required sanitary district program. The district must require the work because it stands to lose possible federal and state grants for sewage treatment plants if stormwater isn't kept out of the sanitary sewage piped to the treatment facilities.

Mini-golf course set for Timbercrest

Schaumburg's Timbercrest Park will be used year-round when a $15,000 miniature golf course is installed this summer.

The 4,000-square-foot facility will be set up on a lighted hockey rink at the nine-acre park at Beech Drive and Hickory Lane, Duane Hosimer, recreation supervisor, said. The rink is used during winter months and the new installation will provide another six-month period of "maximum utilization," Hosimer said.

Hosimer said the golf course is expected to be a high revenue producer, though specific fees have not been set. He said the course probably will open in July and be open daily from late afternoon to 9 p.m.

Maine Township salesman

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 29, of 8852 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

Defeated mayoral candidate William J. Miseska will continue a challenge of Rolling Meadows' April 15 election if a fund to raise $3,000 to $7,000 for a court suit is established in 10 days.

"If the public wants to form a fund within 10 days I'm willing to go along," he said.

Miseska lost to Mayor Roland J. Meyer by 69 votes, according to official election results. He gained only three votes in a partial recount this week.

Miseska could challenge the election result by filing a suit in County Circuit Court, William F. Scannell, his attorney, said this week.

"I DON'T KNOW if I can stand the court costs. He's (Scannell) talking $3,000 to $7,000 court costs," said Miseska.

Miseska said he has spent $3,000 out-of-pocket expenses on his mayoral campaign and that he did not accept any donations for his election effort.

"If I take the whole gaff on my own, that's close to $10,000. I'm not a millionaire," said Miseska, owner and operator of a service station in the city for the past 18 years.

"When it comes to the financial end of this thing, I don't know if I can afford it," said Miseska. "I don't know how far we'll go," he said.

Miseska also said he is looking for an indication of public interest. "I would like to know what public opinion is" on the election challenge, he said.

Miseska and his attorney continue to charge the conduct of the election was improper and could provide grounds to reverse the results or require a new election. They contest the propriety of allowing large numbers of persons to vote by affidavit, which was done because voter records were misplaced.

SCANNELL ATTEMPTED to challenge some of the affidavits at the recount, saying some affidavit voters did not live in the precincts where they voted. But City Atty. Donald M. Rose said that challenge must be taken to court.

Scannell and Miseska also said that envelopes containing returns were not kept sealed until the night of the canvass. The city clerk and deputy clerk opened the envelopes and recorded the returns as election judges brought the timing of the recount did not comply with requirements of election law.

New remap hurts strength of Mikva

by BOB LAHEY

Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.

The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.

In the oddest-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.

The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

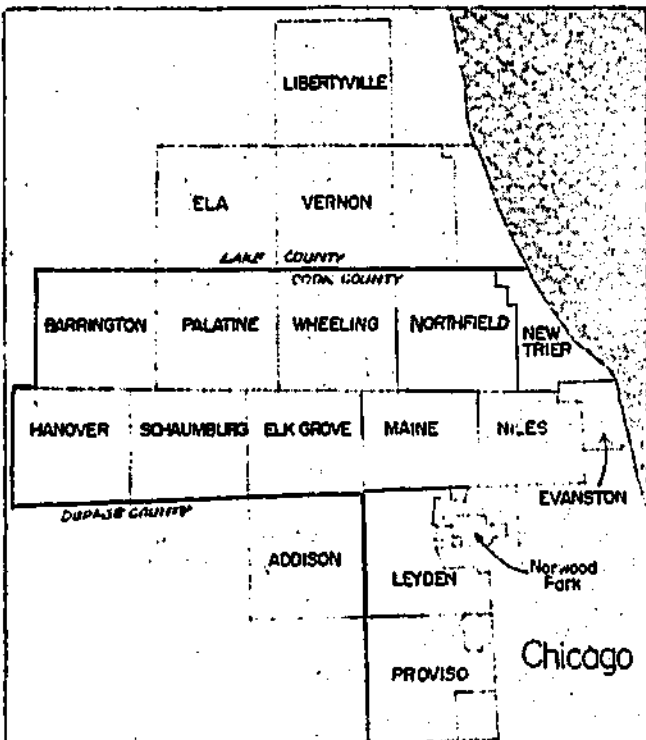

In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

- Control of delegates to the 1978 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution.
- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daley's in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstate that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congress-

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

ational district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention. The original map introduced by Partee — which is still the only proposal formally before the Senate — would, for instance, throw three North Shore state central committeemen into one district.

The three, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; Rep. John Matijovich, D-North Chicago; and 10th District Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka, all led delegations in 1972. All three delegations were committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

City parks participation shows 74% rise in year

Participation in Rolling Meadows Park District programs increased nearly 74 per cent during the last year, park director Stephen Person said Thursday.

Registration in the 1975 winter and spring programs totaled 1,673, an increase of 712. Participants in the 1974 winter and spring programs totaled 966.

Person attributed the growing interest in park district programs to Mary Simonis, recreation director since May 1974. He said that under Mrs. Simonis the number of successful programs offered by the district has doubled.

"WE TRIED TO bring more people into programs and we also added many more programs than we had before," he said. "We just completed probably the best year we ever had."

Mrs. Simonis said the summer program also will include several new activities including aikido, an art of self defense; women's 12-inch softball and boys' recreational baseball.

A total of 24 programs will be offered beginning in June and continuing through August. Course fees vary from $3 to $35.

Activities offered include Fun Time Camp for children in Grades 1-3; sports and crafts camp for children in Grades 4-6; horseback riding for children in Grades 4-12; Meadows Spinners for girls in Grades 3-6; 12-inch softball for girls in Grades 4-6; 12-inch softball for girls in Grades 7-12; recreational baseball for boys in Grades 3-6; and youth golf lessons for children in Grades 6-12.

OTHER ACTIVITIES are gymnastics for children in Grades 2-8; track for boys and girls who will attend high school in the fall; tennis lessons for children; tot tumbling for children 3 to first grade; tot ballet for children 3 through kindergarten; bowling league and bowling instruction; and cheerleading for girls in Grades 4-8.

Adult activities include tennis lessons; aikido; belly dancing, golf lessons, dog obedience, men's basketball night, co-rec volleyball and women's swim and trim.

The swimming pool opens for the season at 1 p.m. June 14. Swimming fees will remain at last year's rate: $30 for a resident family and $15 for an individual resident.

Swim activities include swim team, synchronized swimming, adult fitness and co-rec water volleyball. The learn-to-swim class will be directed by Phil Pardon, varsity swim coach at Rolling Meadows High School.

For further information, persons may contact the park district office at 392-4384.

Heart attack fells man, car hits tree

Despite the efforts of 11 Rolling Meadows paramedics, an Arlington Heights man died Friday after he apparently suffered a heart attack and the car he was driving struck a tree.

Dead is Herman Fischer, 77, of 14 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

Fischer's car crossed Kirchhoff Road and struck a tree in the parkway on the north side of the street, apparently at a very slow speed, police said.

Firemen spent 40 minutes trying to stabilize Fischer's condition at the scene, and then transported him to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Fischer was pronounced dead at the hospital at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Fire destroys abandoned house

An abandoned house between old Arlington Heights and Dundee roads in Arlington Heights was destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. Arson is being investigated, firemen said.

Three fire departments — Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights and Pala-line — responded to the fire call at 4:30 p.m.

The house was abandoned during construction of new Arlington Heights Road and was damaged by previous "small" fires, an Arlington Heights Fire Dept. spokesman said.

Tough to sell homes: residents

Map easing flood-hazard areas now due next winter

THE GOOD EARTH at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is tended by parents at the school — once a year at least. A special day for parents to plant trees, shrubs and flowers while working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerin, who helped in planting.

Palatine residents living in areas designated as flood prone and who can only sell their houses to persons who purchase U.S. flood insurance, will have to wait several more months before a new flood-hazard map is approved.

Although residents have complained that the flood-insurance requirement reduces their property values and makes their houses more difficult to sell, local real estate brokers said they have had little trouble selling houses in the flood-prone areas.

Jack Kemmerly of Kemmerly Real Estate and Insurance, said the flood insurance requirement has had no effect because there is so much misunderstanding about the flood-insurance requirement and so many villages have contested the maps.

The revised map minimizing Palatine's flood-hazard area is not expected to be approved by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development until this winter.

Village officials previously were told the revised map would be approved by April 30. Village Mgr. Anlon H. Harwig said the delay was due to a change in HUD's printing process that required the complete redrafting of the map.

The map is being prepared by the engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Cordray and Carpenter of Harrisburg, Pa., under a HUD contract.

The new map, being prepared at the request of the village, will be based on elevations instead of common boundary lines.

Homeowners within the newly defined flood-hazard area will fall under the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, which requires residents to purchase flood insurance prior to obtaining a mortgage or modification of an existing loan. The cost of the insurance is from $50 to $100 a year.

Several objections have been lodged against the current map by residents who had their homes included in the map even though they don't flood. The residents argued the map placed an undue hardship on them and reduced the value of their homes.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstate that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

sional district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention. The original map introduced by Partee — which is still the only proposal formally before the Senate — would, for instance, throw three North Shore state central committeemen into one district.

The three, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago; and 10th District Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka, all led delegations in 1972. All three delegations were committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

PAT SHERMAN, and other members of the Plum Grove Garden Club work on their garden plot on Plum Grove Road just behind the Chicken Unlimited. The club has maintained the garden plot for more than a year and will receive partial funding for the upkeep this year from the Palatine Advisory Board under a new garden plot program devised to beautify public areas in the village.

Funds offered to groups to plant flower gardens

The Palatine Advisory Board is offering matching funds for any village organization willing to plant and maintain flower gardens in public areas this summer.

The garden-plot program is being launched as one of the advisory board's beautification projects.

The advisory board has about $1,000 available from a federal grant to the Village of Palatine, specifically for beautification purposes.

The board plans to allocate about $100 for materials to each civic group that is willing to select a site for a garden plot and maintain it, said Judy Cimaglio of the Palatine Advisory Board's beautification committee.

Some of the public places in the village where gardens could be planted include the village railroad station, in front of the village hall and at People's Park, Brockway and Slade streets, she said.

Civic organizations must submit their suggested garden locations and specific plans to the advisory board for approval. Groups interested in the project should call Shirley Kmiecik, 358-2760.

750 fewer than last year

Poor weather reduces use of golf course

Inclement spring weather has reduced use of Palatine Hills Golf Course this year.

Although more than 300 passes to play the park district court have been sold, the number of spring golfers declined from about 5,750 in 1974 to 5,000 this year said Ralph Lonergan, golf course manager.

Passes are available at the course clubhouse on Northwest Highway.

• Residents' unlimited season pass is $120.

• Residents' limited season pass is $85.

• Residents' junior (12 to 18 years old) and senior citizens' season passes are $60 and do not permit play before 3 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Green fees on weekdays are:

- Residents with a pass, $4.25.
- Resident junior or senior citizens with a pass, $3.50.
- Nonresidents, $5.25.

All golfers, $3.50 after 4 p.m., except juniors, $2.50.

Greens fees on weekends are:

- All golfers, $6.50 before 2 p.m. and $5 from 2 to 4 p.m. Nine holes, $3.50 between 2 and 4 p.m.
- Residents with a pass, $3 after 4 p.m.
- Non residents, $3.50 after 4 p.m.

Lonergan said the fairways will be fertilized next week and that the area around the pro shop and the paths leading to the tees have been black topped. The park district also has purchased more golf carts, bringing the total to 25.

School trucks seek slogan, design

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 is asking students to create a design and slogan for its food-service trucks.

The district is holding a contest for students in kindergarten through eighth grade to come up with a slogan and design to decorate the district's white delivery trucks. Separate prizes will be given for best design and best slogan, but both prizes may be won by the same person.

Gift certificates of $15 each will be presented to the first-place winners and $10 gift certificates will be presented to the second-place winners. The first-place winners' design and slogan will be painted on the trucks this summer.

Ten entries may be submitted from each school, and principals will devise their own method of selecting those 10 entries. The 10 finalists from each school will be awarded a free lunch. The final entries should be sent to William Colburn, district business manager, by June 4.

Students should submit designs or slogans and slogans on 12-by 18-inch paper. Slogans only should be submitted on 8½-by 11-inch paper. Each project should list the student's name, grade, and school on the back.

Parks OK budget increase of 7.5%

The Palatine Park Board has approved a $1.2 million budget for 1975-76, a 7.5 per cent increase compared to last year's budget.

Park district officials said they

90% of village businesses pay increased fees

Nearly 90 per cent of Palatine's 500 businesses have paid the increased fees to obtain 1975 business licenses.

Applications for the new business licenses, which went into effect in March, are coming in at a rate of 10 per day, said Robert Rudd, administrative assistant.

Three notices have been sent to businesses that have not obtained 1975 licenses and the next contact will be oral, Rudd said. Rudd said he probably would start contacting businesses operating without the village license next week.

The village's new business license fees are based on the type of business and square footage. The licenses range from $35 for a small service or amusement and entertainment establishment to $600 for large industries.

Several businessmen have objected to the new fees as being too high and unfair to businesses.

The penalty for not complying with the business license ordinance is $25 to $500 per day.

could not estimate the impact of the increased budget on the park district's tax rate. They have said the 1975 tax rate will be about 44 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

This will mean a 5-cent-per-$100 assessed valuation reduction for residents of the former Palatine Park District and a 20-cent-per-$100 assessed valuation increase for residents of the former Palatine Rural Park District. The two park districts merged Jan. 1 and now serve about 43,000 persons.

The increase in the new budget is because of salary increases for full-time park district employees, including merit increases of up to 5 per cent and the hiring of additional personnel, officials said.

The park district plans to hire a full-time and a part-time secretary and several part-time recreation personnel for the Birchwood Park complex completed late last summer.

All of the funds from the former rural park district will be used in the construction of the first park in unincorporated Palatine Township at Home Street and Oak Avenue this year.

Voting machines in budget should be used: Eppley

working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerrin, who helped in planting.

by LYNN ASINOF

Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley Friday said voting machines may be used in the next village election.

"As far as I am concerned, that is the way to go," Eppley said, noting that a preliminary investigation shows that voting machines are within the village's budget.

Eppley said his information is based on the use of voting machines in Wheeling's April 15 election. Wheeling rented the machines from the county, paying $60 per machine including pickup and delivery.

The manager said he was requested to look into the matter by Mayor Robert D. Teichert after an informal recount of five village precincts from the April 15 election. The discovery showed that election judges lost hundreds of votes in their election tallies.

TEICHERT and village trustees said they were shocked by the vote discrepancies, which amounted to more than 430 errors in the judges' tallies.

Voting machines would eliminate the possibility of such errors, since the votes are counted by the machine. In addition, the judges do not have to spend long hours counting the votes after having officiated at the polls all day.

Wheeling Village Clerk Evelyn Diens said the first village precinct reported its results at 8:07 p.m., seven minutes after the polls officially closed. She said all vote results were in at 7 p.m., and said the last precinct was substantially behind the others because the judges forgot to count the absentee ballots.

In Mount Prospect, vote reports were not completed until about midnight.

Mrs. Diens said it cost about $2,000 more to have the election with voting machines instead of paper ballots. She said that in addition to the rental fee, the village also had to pay for the printing of the ballot strips which cost $300.

THE WHEELING clerk said three are basic election costs that are not affected by either the use of paper ballots or machines. She said these include the rental of polling places, the judges' salaries and the precinct judges' kits. The village also must continue to print absentee and specimen ballots.

Family learns Bible work -- in the jungle

Swifts to leave Rolling Meadows
to translate God's word . . . where ?

by NANCY COWGER

For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.

But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.

Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.

"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and had nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.

While Swift was trying to survive, the women and children, in-

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 29, of 8652 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanlick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

REP. ABNER MIKVA

REP. PHILIP M. CRANE

ROMAN PUCINSKI

New remap hurts strength of Mikva

by BOB LAHEY

Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.

The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.

In the odd-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.

The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

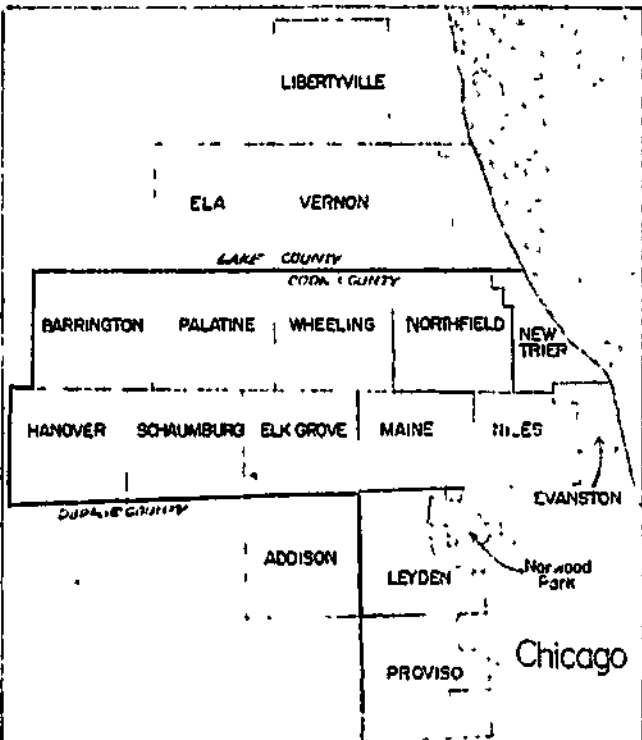

In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

- Control of delegates to the 1976 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution.
- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstate that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention delegations that did not follow his lead during the 1972 convention.

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. ston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

Busse principal serious, but better

Busse School Principal Robert B. Ferguson remained in serious but improving condition late Friday in the intensive-care unit at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after a Thursday traffic accident in Mount Prospect.

A hospital spokesman said Ferguson broke an ankle and some ribs in the accident, which occurred at 4:30 p.m. Thursday on Golf Road at Robert Drive.

Police said Ferguson, 43, of 1208 Robert Dr., Mount Prospect, was stopped in a left turn lane when his car was hit from behind by a car driven by Lawrence N. Mandel, 32, of 1373 Whispering Springs, Palatine. On impact, Ferguson's car was pushed into oncoming traffic where it collided with a third car, driven by Richard E. Ward, 37, of 8916 N. Ozanam, Niles, police said.

A FOURTH CAR, waiting to make a left turn opposite Ferguson, was then struck by Mandel's vehicle, police said. The driver of that car, Marjorie J. Thias, 47, of 606 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect, was uninjured, while Mandel and Ward incurred slight injuries.

Police said after Mandel's vehicle struck the two cars, it went across the road and onto property at 1223 Glenn Ln. owned by Joseph Boruta, and caused an estimated $500 damage to trees and shrubbery.

Police charged Mandel with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Mandel will appear June 18 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Schools seeking $25,000 from U.S. for sidewalks

Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 will apply for $25,000 in Federal Community Housing and Development Act funds to install blacktop sidewalks along two streets.

The sidewalks will be installed on the west side of Schoenbeck Road between Hintz and Camp McDonald roads and on the north side of Camp McDonald Road between Elm Street and Elmhurst Road.

Dist. 23 board members first considered having sidewalks installed on the heavily traveled Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads in September. Although the district could not afford the installation, officials learned that federal funding is available through the Cook County board.

The report should be ready next week.

Extra foundation work would be required in low areas, he said, and shrub removal or driveway adjustments might become necessary in some places.

After the survey is completed and an accurate cost estimate is available, Hendren said the district would make formal application for that amount to the county board. The district has set no completion date for the sidewalk installation as yet, Hendren said.

FLETCHER ENGINEERING Co. of Des Plaines is surveying the sidewalk locations to determine the cost of the project, said James Hendren, Dist. 23 business manager.

Hendren said the engineering survey has revealed potential structural problems that might raise the estimated cost or necessitate moving the walks to the other side of the street.

Rate hike for out-of-towners?

Commuter parking lots attract 35% nonresidents

THE GOOD EARTH at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde, Arlington Heights, is tended by parents at the school — once a year at least. A special day for parents to plant trees, shrubs and flowers while working in the school's nature court brought out a crowd of parents recently, including resident Martin Mulkerrin, who helped in planting.

by KURT BAER

More than 35 per cent of the cars parking in Arlington Heights commuter lots belong to out-of-towners who pay the same parking rate as village residents.

Of a total of 647 cars in nine different parking lots, a village survey shows 47.7 per cent had Arlington Heights vehicle stickers, while 36.3 per cent of the cars had stickers from other villages. The survey found that 16 per cent of the cars had no vehicle sticker at all.

Results of the survey have been forwarded to the village board's public health and safety committee, which is reviewing Arlington Heights' parking policy.

One committee member, Trustee Richard J. Durava, has said that officials should consider giving Arlington Heights residents lower parking rates than nonresidents.

THE COST OF providing commuter parking in downtown Arlington Heights approaches $3,000 a space, Durava said. Since each space produces under $200 a year in revenue, Arlington Heights is subsidizing parking for residents of other suburbs, he said.

Cars in the commuter parking lots were checked for village vehicle stickers on Dec. 2, 4 and 8 last year by Arlington Heights Police Dept. cadets.

The results did not vary significantly on each of the survey days. The 647-car total was counted Dec. 4.

Also under review is the relative amount of parking for commuters and shoppers, revenue and expenses from the present parking system and the effect of the new commuter station at Arlington Park Race Track, Trustee Alice Harms said.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS have long been planning to buy the Hill-Behan Lumber Co. property on Arlington Heights Road, south of Northwest Highway, for additional commuter parking.

The estimated cost of buying the property and building the parking lot is now nearly $750,000. The village has applied for $460,000 in federal and state funds to assist in the purchase of the property.

Also under consideration is the construction of a multi-level parking garage on village-owned land between Veil and Highland avenues south of Campbell Street.

Suspect in assault cases charged in Palatine rape

A Maine Township man, charged with rape and assault against two area women, Friday was charged with raping a woman in the parking lot of the Countryside Apartments, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, last October.

Willie Sampson, 29, of 8652 E. Gregory St., was charged earlier this week with the rape of a Wheeling woman in March and the assault of a Palatine woman May 3.

Sampson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by Sheriff's Police late Tuesday outside his home, ending a three-month surveillance and investigation, police officials said.

Sampson was charged with rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery in connection with the Countryside Apartments incident.

He also was charged by Sheriff's Police with rape, aggravated kidnapping and deviate sexual assault in connection with the Wheeling incident and has been charged by Palatine police with aggravated battery.

Sampson's bond remains $100,000. He is being held in County Jail pending a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Niles branch of Circuit Court.

He was charged with the latest rape case when he appeared in court to answer charges relating to the other two Friday, police said.

Another Palatine-area rape still is unsolved but police are continuing the investigation, said Lt. Howard Vanick of the Sheriff's Police. That incident occurred north of Palatine after a woman was followed from a nearby grocery store and attacked in the garage of her home.

Family learns Bible work -- in the jungle

Swifts to leave Rolling Meadows
to translate God's word ... where?

by NANCY COWGER

For the last three months, the David Swift family of Rolling Meadows has been receiving jungle training. It meant living in mud huts in the season of the tropical rain forests and learning the language and customs of another world.

But this is a deeply dedicated and religious family that has decided to leave the suburbs to work with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Inc. in the most remote parts of the world. They will run an outpost for Bible translators probably in Latin America.

Few would go through the rigors that David Swift did to qualify for the overseas program. He was sent into the jungles of Mexico for training with a canteen of water, a machete and no food. He was told to survive for 4½ days. And he did.

"SOME GUYS WERE very efficient," Swift said. "They got everything done the first day and had nothing to do the rest of the time. They got depressed." He said he knew that could happen, so each day he gathered only as much firewood as he'd need that day and left similar tasks to fill the time.

While Swift was trying to survive, the women and children, in-

REP. ABNER MIKVA

REP. PHILIP M. CRANE

ROMAN PUCINSKI

New remap hurts strength of Mikva

by BOB LAHEY

Boundaries of a new redistricting plan for the 10th Congressional District of Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva are drawn to "carefully leave out all the Democratic areas and carefully include all the Republicans," a Mikva aide charged Friday.

The plan was unveiled late Thursday by Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago.

In the odd-shaped district yet produced, Mikva would be thrown into a district with Republican Henry Hyde of Oak Park, while losing the western half of his hometown of Evanston, and all of Niles Township, areas of his greatest strength.

The new proposal would leave the present district of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, untouched. Under an earlier Partee map, Wheeling Township would be separated from the district and thrown into Mikva's area.

WHILE MANY Democrats consider it a side issue, Partee's latest map reinforced the belief of Mikva supporters that he has been targeted for defeat by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

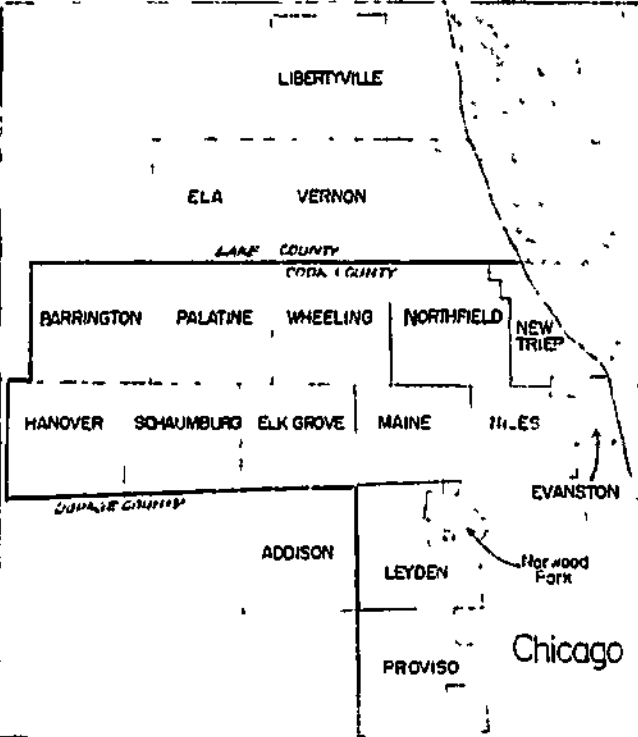

In varying degrees, these are the standards by which suburban Democrats see the Daley-inspired maps being drawn:

- Control of delegates to the 1976 National Convention, who are elected by congressional district.
- Creation of a district in which Chicago Ald. Roman Pucinski, former congressman, can be elected.
- Retribution
- Restoring the number of congressmen the mayor can influence from 7 to 9.

Legislators report that Daleyites in Springfield are trying to sell Downstate lawmakers that the Pucinski theme — to reward him for his sacrificial campaign against Sen. Charles Percy in 1972 — is the only real motivation.

Daley backers are telling Downstaters that carving out portions of the suburbs to link them with Chicago districts is being suggested only to accommodate Pucinski and would not really increase Daley's power.

SUBURBAN Democrats, however, also detect a move by Daley to dilute the strength of congressional district convention dele-

WHITE PORTION of map shows proposed new 10th Congressional District contained in latest redistricting plan proposed by Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. The new district of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, would extend from the Evanston lakeshore as far south as Western Springs in DuPage County. The western half of Evanston Township and all of Niles Township, two areas of Mikva strength, would be detached, leaving him in a solidly Republican area. Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane's 12th District, shown by the identified townships in gray, would remain untouched. Under an earlier plan, Wheeling Township would have been removed from it.

Edmund Muskie, while Daley urged delegates to remain uncommitted.

As further evidence of the retribution theory, Jack Marco, administrative aide to Mikva, pointed to changes in the southern Illinois district of Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th, in the newest map.

"Partee is lying to legislators Downstate," said Marco, "when he tells them there would be no changes outside the Chicago area." He said the latest map takes away one county where Simon is popular and adds another new county.

Parks OK 5% wage increase for staff

The Arlington Heights Park Board has approved a 5 per cent salary increase for administrative staff.

The wage increase is the same as the 5 per cent salary increase for all full-time, nonadministrative park district personnel approved several weeks ago as part of the park district's $16 million budget for 1975-76.

Newly elected park board members include Jacqueline J. Gruenewald, Robert D. Smith and Darwin W. Townsend. Lloyd W. Meyer has been elected board president and Kathryn Graham has been elected vice president. Meyer and Mrs. Graham were the only members who served on the former park board.
